survey and now fresh survey is conducted in the State and results will be out soon, Bhubaneswar (K-CN): Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik was happy with practical suggestions presented by the District Collectors.

And he lauded specifically three District Collectors-Ashish Thakre, Collector Balangir, Arindam Dakua, Collector Nayagarh and Bhupendra Singh Poonia, Collector Dhenkanal for their positive and out of box thinking.

The Workshop of Collectors today deliberated on citizen-centric services to the people of the State as five groups of Collectors were formed to suggest ways to strengthen the process and give their suggestion to the government. According to sources, five groups formed deliberated on issues concerning rural housing, drinking water, paddy procurement from farmers, Forest Rights Act, various farmers' oriented schemes and students in State.

Every group had two moderators each who deliberated on the issues separately, the sources added.

They said Chief Minister Mr.Patnaik moved from room to room where the groups were busy deliberating and sought their view points.

He was happy with the 'Practical' suggestions received from the groups on the first day of the three-day workshop, the sources added.

While Rural Development Secretary Bishnupada Sethi and Energy Secretary Hemant Sharma moderated for Group I, BDA Vice Chairman Krishan Kumar and MD State Health Corporation Rabindra P Singh moderated Group II, the sources said.

Group III was moderated by IDCO CMD Sanjay Singh and Watershed Mission Director Sujata Karthikeyan, Group IV by Panchayati Raj Director Roopa Mishra Technical Education Director Balwant Singh and Group V by Health & Family Welfare Secretary PK Meherda and CEO State Skill Development Authority, Rajesh Prabhakar Patil, they added.

The Groups interacted among themselves in the Chief Minister's Conference Hall, Conference Halls of Revenue & Disaster Management Department, Finance Department, Third Floor Conference Hall and Government's resolve to end child labor in all forms in the State.

Mr.Patnaik while twitting on the World Day against Child Labor has said "I reaffirm resolve to end Child Labor in all forms in Odisha. Lets' take a stand. Say No to Child Labor".

Sending the message to the State Level Program organized by the Department of Labor & ESI, Mr.Patnaik has urged to take steps in this regard.

The World Day against Child Labor was observed here on 12 June by the Department of Labor & ESI (DoLE) in collaboration with UNICEF, which was inaugurated by Prafulla Samal, Minister Women & Child Development. Susant Singh, Minister Labor & ESI presided over the function, where Principal Secretary Labor & ESI G Srinivas, UNICEF Odisha Chief Yumi Bae and Labor Commissioner Sachin R Jadav spoke at length for a "Child Labor Free and Child Friendly Odisha".

In fact the sustainable Development Goal (SDG) of the Odisha Government envisages for complete stop of Child Labor by 2025. And accordingly a

The Plan is formulated in collaboration with UNICEF and other Stake holders to bring elimination of Child Labor in the State.

For complete elimination of Child Labor a State Action Plan was formulated in 2014, which is being implemented in a coordinated manner.

Action Plan also spells out Preventive Methods for eradication of Child Labor.

In order to eliminate Child Labor, DoLE has started fresh survey of Child Labor in all the 30 districts. Twenty years ago there was a officials say.

On completion of the survey Special Training Centers will be opened to enroll the Child Labor within 14 years.

These children will be imparted bridge education, vocational training mid day meal, stipend, health care and recreation. The ultimate objective is to prepare them to be mainstreamed into formal system of education. Adolescents (15-18) years will be linked under different Skill Development Programs, which are being organized by the State Government.

NDA government muzzling media, says Rahul Gandhi

BENGALURU(K-CN): AICC vice-president Rahul Gandhi on Monday accused the NDA government of muzzling freedom of expression and trying to force the media into silence.

Speaking at an event organised to release a commemorative edition of the Congress party newspaper National Herald, Rahul Gandhi said the Dalits are being beaten up, minorities are frightened and bureaucrats and journalists are not being allowed to speak the truth.

"The government is trying to silence everyone. Those who speak the truth are being pushed around," he said.

Referring to his visit last week to Madhya Pradesh when he was not allowed to enter the state to meet the families of farmers who died in police firing, Rahul Gandhi said, "When I asked the policemen under what law they were stopping me from entering the state, they told me there was no law but they were only carrying out orders. That is the situation in the country today."

Quoting Soviet poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko, he added, "When truth is replaced by silence, the silence is a lie."

The Congress veep said, "Everybody knows what the truth is. But they are scared to say it."

Vice-president Mohammad Hamid Ansari released the National Herald commemorative publication to celebrate 70 years of India's independence.

Efforts to revive the newspaper started amid a legal battle launched by BJP leader Subramanian Swamy, who has filed a criminal complaint against Congress president Sonia Gandhi, Rahul Gandhi and others.

In his private criminal complaint, Swamy accused the Gandhis and others of conspiring to misappropriate funds by paying only Rs 50 lakh through which Young Indian Pvt. Ltd obtained the right to recover Rs 90.25 crore, which its publisher, Associate Journals Ltd (AJL), owed to the Congress party. Priyanka Chopra stuns as Victoria Leeds in new Baywatch poster

NEW DELHI(KCN): The one actress who believes being bad can be "so good" is none other than Bollywood's Desi girl Priyanka Chopra.

The global star, who is all set for her Hollywood debut, recently shared a scintillating poster from 'Baywatch' saying, "Being bad can be so good. Coming soon."

Donning a red off-shoulder dress, Priyanka looks hot as Victoria Leeds in the new poster.

The Seth Gordon-directorial is based on the television series of the same name and stars Dwayne Johnson, Zac Efron, Alexandra Daddario, Kelly Rohrbach, Jon Bass, Ilfenesh Hadera, Yahya Abdul-Mateen II, David Hasselhoff and Pamela Anderson.

'Phillauri' gives first wedding song of 2017

NEW DELHI(KCN): Here's a brand new Punjabi track to be added to your playlist which is also a perfect wedding number.

'Phillauri's second track, titled 'Whats Up', is a wedding song that sees how preparations for Suraj and Mehreen's wedding are on in full swing while Anushka Sharma, who plays a ghost, continues to haunt the groom.

The video also shows us the love story between Anushka and Diljit from the old era.

The number is sung by Mika Singh and Jasleen Royal, and the lyrics are penned by Aditya Sharma.

The 'Sultan' star shared the song on Twitter with the caption, "Hey WhatsUp? Here's the bride with the 1st wedding song this season #WhatsUp @TSeries @OfficialCSFilms @foxstarhindi."

Microsoft Azure to be exclusive cloud partner for BankChain

CHENNAI(KCN): BankChain, a platform for banks in India to explore, build, and implement blockchain solutions, has selected Microsoft Azure as their exclusive cloud partner.

As part of this partnership, the 20 BankChain members that include State Bank of India (SBI), ICICI Bank, DCB Bank, Kotak Bank, Bank of Baroda, Deutsche Bank and others, will use Microsoft Azure Blockchain as the underlying blockchain platform.

Microsoft will work closely with Primechain Technologies, the driving force behind the BankChain consortium, to develop various blockchain use cases. The first active project is Primechain-KYC, a permission based blockchain for integrated and shared know your customer (KYC), anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism.

"The partnership with BankChain underscores our commitment to enable the digital transformation of the BFSI sector in India. Blockchain is one of the most exciting innovations in this sector and we at Microsoft are leading this trend by offering the best-in-class Azure Blockchain offering. We look forward to working with stakeholders like Primechain to make this partnership a success" said Peter Gartenberg, general manager, Enterprise and Partner Group, Microsoft.

SBI's Collaborative Innovation Centre (CIC) along with other banks in BankChain will start testing and validating various Primechain Blockchain Pilots on Microsoft Azure Cloud nodes.

Sudin Baraokar, head, innovation, SBI, said, "Azure will help enable agile Cloud nodes build and configuration. This will propel the BankChain consortium members to work together as a unified team."

Prasanna Lohar, head, innovation, DCB Bank, believes, "With Microsoft we will see immense blockchain transformation to address enhancements like provision of interface, interoperability, security, ease of integration with other systems, etc. We anticipate seeing a great technology architecture build on Microsoft Azure which will help us build the Blockchain Banking Platform."

According to KPMG, over the next quarter, there will likely be a continued focus on developing more robust business cases for blockchain solutions, while interest in blockchain will likely expand further into the insurance and asset management sectors.

The government is expected to release regulations for fintech, particularly related to peer-to-peer lending, which could lead to additional activity. From an overall fintech activity perspective, in Q1'17 interest grew in India, and it accounted for around four of the top ten deals this quarter.

Payments and lending drove investment although interest in AI also increased. Heading into Q2'17, AI and blockchain are expected to remain big bets for fintech investors in Asia, in addition to payments, open data and data analytics.

Rupee plunges to week low of 64.44, upcoming US monetary policy in focus

MUMBAI(KCN): In line with equities, the rupee on Monday weakened further by 20 paise to end at a one-week low of 64.44 amid impending Fed rate hike

April and retail inflation numbers for May - released after market hours.

Forex sentiment wavered as bit of caution set in ahead of this week's monetary weekend's close of 64.24 at the Interbank Foreign Exchange (Forex) Market.

It kept drifting throughout the session impacted by severe dollar pressure while, fixed the reference rate for the dollar at 64.3407 and for the euro at 72.1324.

Sluggish domestic equities also impacted the currency market. Retail inflation fell to a record low of 2.18 per cent in May and Industrial production growth slipped to 3.1 per cent in April.

This is the biggest one-day fall for the home currency in nearly three-weeks.

However, robust capital inflows and weak dollar overseas cushioned the rupee fall. Foreign investors and funds have pumped in nearly $ 2 billion in the country's capital market in the last seven trading sessions due to finalisation of GST rates for bulk of the items and forecast of a normal monsoon.

Domestic bourses encountered fresh bouts of selling pressure following heavy unwinding in PSU banking stocks as sentiment took a hit after Maharashtra government agreed to write off the farm loans and also ahead of key data release.

The flagship Sensex tumbled over 166 points to end at 31,095.70, while Nifty shed almost 52 points to settle 9,616.40.

On the global front, the greenback remained under immense pressure in the face of UK's political jitters amid speculative sell-offs with upcoming Fed's meeting taking center stage.

British pound steadied after last weekend crash on prospect of a "hung parliament".

The dollar index, which tracks the US currency against a basket of six major rivals, was down 0.14 per cent at 97.10.

In cross-currency trades, the rupee strengthened further against the pound sterling to end at 81.83 from 82.07 per pound, but dropped further against the Euro to finish at 72.36 from 71.88 last Friday.

It also weakened further against the Japanese Yen to settle at 58.66 per 100 yens from 58.20 earlier.

Investors maintained cautious stance ahead of the release of key macroeconomic data - industrial output data (IIP) for policy decision from the US Federal Reserve, which is expected to include interest-rate hike.

The local unit opened sharply lower at 64.30 against last and touched an intraday low of 64.46 in late afternoon deals, before finishing at 64.44, revealing a steep loss of 20 paise, or 31 per cent.

"I take inputs from our senior bowlers who have played a lot in these conditions. Our coach (Anil Kumble), Mahi Bhai, Virat gives us tips on what are the conditions, discuss plans. It's of great help," Bumrah said.

Like his senior partner Bhuvneshwar Kumar, Bumrah also agreed that there is no swing available for bowlers on tracks which are hard and good for batting.

"I don't know as this is my first visit to England. I have not played here earlier but whatever I heard the ball swings here quite a lot. But so far there has not been any swing available. Bowlers have to adapt all the time. We focus on other options - to contain the batters." "The conditions were favouring the batsmen and wickets are also stable. You can't bowl full and try to swing the ball. You have to contain the batsman and it worked in our favour. So even if I don't get wickets, somebody else will get wickets. That was the basic plan, to bowl good, hard lengths," he said.

back on Pakistan. Frustration grew among Pakistan players with Mathews and combined to polish off the middle order, helping Pakistan bowl out Sri Lanka for 236 in a virtual quarterfinal of the ICC Champions Trophy here today.

Sri Lanka looked set for a big score after being asked to bat in the final Group B match but Amir (2/53) and Junaid (3/40) scripted a turnaround with fiery spells.

Hasan Ali (3/43) was another Pakistani pacesman who made an impact at the start of the innings.

Opener Niroshan Dickwella (73) and skipper Angelo Mathews (39) had put on a display of resolute batting before Amir scalped the latter to trigger the collapse at Sophia Gar-

Amir and Junaid took two wickets each in the space of 3.2 overs as Sri Lanka lost four wickets, including the well-set Mathews and Dickwella, for six runs.

Lower-order batsmen Suranga Lakmal (26) and Asela Gunaratne (27) offered dogged resistance to take Sri Lankan innings close to the 250-run mark. They added 46 crucial runs for the eighth wicket.

At the start, Danushka Gunathilaka (13) was scalped early by Junaid but Dickwella and Kusal Mendis (27) stitched a 56-run stand to keep Sri Lanka going.

Things looked settled for the Island with pace and bounce before eventually bowling him out.

It brought Dinesh Chandimal to the crease but his stay was reduced to just two balls as the batsman dragged one from Fahim Ashraf onto his stumps, going for a drive.

Two wickets in three balls, however, did not bother Sri Lanka much as Dickwella remained solid at the other end and soon completed his half-century with a single off Mohammed Hafeez.

Skipper Mathews supported his colleague with a patient knock. The two batsmen rotated the strike quite easily, which not only kept the scoreboard ticking, but also put pressure Dickwella raising a resolute 78-run stand for the fourth wicket in 16.1 overs.

Amir was brought into the attack and he delivered with his second ball, getting rid of Mathews, who miscued a shot and dragged it onto his stumps.

It was the first wicket of the tournament for Amir and it came at a crucial time for Pakistan. Junaid sent back new man Dhananjaya de Silva (1) and Amir returned to dismiss Dickwella, who fell to a sensational low catch by wicketkeeper Sarfraz Ahmed.

Junaid saw the back of Thisara Perera to rattle the Lankan innings.

Silva and Costa on target as Spain beat plucky Macedonia

Plucky Macedonia gave Spain a tough test in their World Cup Group G qualifier in Skopje on Sunday but despite a superb goal from Stefan Ristovski the Spaniards still ran out 2-1 winners thanks to goals from David Silva and Diego Costa.

Spain quickly unlocked the Macedonian defence in the 15th minute, Andres Iniesta chipping a pass to Jordi Alba who pulled it back to Silva who turned and shot to open the scoring.

Macedonia poured their energy into chasing another goal but it never came. The win means Spain remain top of Group G on goal difference ahead of Italy, who comfortably beat Liechtenstein 5-0 in Udine.

"We knew it was going to be a complicated game," defender Sergio Ramos told Spanish broadcaster TVE.

"The aim was to get the three points and we knew it was going to be difficult." Spain somehow failed to convert a huge amount of possession into goals, despite coming in behind the Macedonian defence seemingly at will in the first half.

On the few occasions they lost the ball, the Spaniards won it back quickly and resumed their patient probing of the Macedonian defence but too often the final ball let them down.

Defending deep for much of the game, the Macedonians made a few forays forward on the counter-attack but they rarely managed to trouble David De Gea until Ristovski's frenetic charge from the half-way line ended with him firing into the top right corner.

Spain will host Italy in their next qualifying game while Macedonia, who are second from bottom of the group on three points, travel to third-placed Israel, who lost 3-0 to Albania.

Had to alter length as white ball is not swinging: Bhuvneshwar Kumar

LONDON(KCN): It is inexplicable when a white ball refuses to offer swing for seamers in English conditions and Bhuvneshwar Kumar has altered his strategy after failing to understand why this is happening during the ongoing ICC Champions Trophy here.

Bhuvneshwar has bowled 22.3 overs across three games taking four wickets for 100 runs at a very decent economy rate of 4.44, given the field restrictions in Powerplays are loaded heavily in favour of batsmen.

"It's very difficult to point out why the ball is not swinging in England. The wickets are not generally this hard in England during this time of the year. During the Champions Trophy in 2013 and the next year during Test series, wickets were soft.

"Not very soft that batsmen would encounter problems but soft enough for some deviation," Bhuvneshwar told mediapersons at the mixed zone after India reached the semi-finals. India's leading seamer is, however, baffled and failed to pinpoint whether it is the quality of white kookaburra to be blamed.

"I don't know whether that's the reason or something to do with the quality of the balls, but as everyone is watching that it's difficult for the bowlers to get swing."

Swing bowlers normally have to pitch it up in order to either move the ball away or into the batsman but Bhuvneshwar decided to hold the length back a little in order to stifle runs.

Something he successfully did against South African duo of Quinton de Kock and Hashim Amla during their 76-run opening stand.

"When the ball doesn't swing then you have to alter the length. You have to bowl a bit back of the length. Normally, we bowl fuller lengths to get wickets but here we are holding the length back.

"The par score is 300 and the main aim is to take wickets and if, then build up adequate pressure so that we can get wickets later to restrict them to a small total," Bhuvneshwar explained.

But doesn't a bowler feel helpless when there is nothing to look forward to and that too in England, a dream destination for bowlers.

"In these circumstances, the idea is not to bowl at their strengths. Look, they will still find ways to score but idea was to keep it at bare minimum. I feel the pressure that we created in the first 15 overs helped us get wickets later on, not to forget the three brilliant run-outs," he added.

According to Bhuvneshwar, one of the main factors that worked during the South Africa match was the 40 runs that they saved in the second Powerplay, thereby increasing the pressure on the opponents.

"When (Quinton) De Kock and (Hashim) Amla were batting, we knew that their strategy was to not lose too many wickets till the 30th over, before going for the kill. But our plan was to ensure that we build pressure with dot balls. "The 40 runs that we saved during the second Powerplay helped. If you are only 130 at the end of 30th over, you are mentally under pressure."
