Ex-Odisha minister Kamala Das dies at 79

Cuttack (KCN): Former Odisha minister Kamala Das died at a hospital in Cuttack in the early hours of Friday, her family said.

Das, 79, was admitted to a private hospital in Bhubaneswar two weeks ago after she complained of chest pain. During the course of the treatment she was diagnosed with a lung infection, they said.

Later, she was shifted to a hospital in Cuttack, they added.

Das was on ventilator support for the last three days. She died around 12.30 am. Her body was taken to her hometown, Bhograi, where the last rites will be held, her family said.

It can be informed here that Das was first elected as an MLA in 1990 from the Bhograi seat in Balasore district on a Janata Dal ticket. She was re-elected in 1995, and then again in 2000 as a BJD candidate. She served as MoS for Education & Youth Services and MoS for Health & Family Welfare in the Biju Patnaik government.

She was also the Woman and Child Development Minister in the Naveen Patnaik government.

Das was dropped as a minister in 2001.

Following that, she switched over to the Congress. She returned to the BJD in 2014.

Violence erupts in Manipur again; three injured in gunfire between Meitei, Kuki insurgents

Imphal (KCN): Three persons were injured in a gunfight between armed village volunteers and unidentified gunmen at Pelyang village in Manipur's Tengnoupal district on Friday, officials said.

"There was a gunfight between Meitei and Kuki insurgents at Pelyang village in Tengnoupal district, around 25 km from the boundary of Thoubal at Heirok," police said.

"Three Meitei insurgents sustained injuries, but they are currently stable. The incident took place under Machi police station in Tengnoupal district. Meitei women have taken out rallies in some areas in protest against the attack by Kukis," police added.

Meanwhile, additional state and central police forces have been rushed to the area to bring the situation under control, they said.

In another development, unknown men torched a saw mill near Pallel in Kakching district adjacent to Thoubal district in the early hours of Friday. "Fire tenders were rushed to the spot but the mill was gutted," police said. Security forces have launched operations to arrest the perpetrators, police said.

Asked about reports of kidnapping of three Indian youths, he said the Indian embassy is working on the matter and hoped that they would be back home soon. Several parts of Myanmar have been witnessing intense fighting between the military junta and resistance forces. The resistance forces have already captured several towns. The anti-junta forces seized control of several military bases and a

Pratihari servitors to guard Puri Jagannath temple to prevent entry of non Hindus

Puri (KCN): In order to prevent the entry of non-Hindus, the Sri Jagannath temple administration in Puri has decided to deploy "Pratiharis," a traditional servitor community, within the temple premises. The decision comes in response to several incidents of non-Hindus gaining access to the temple, as stated by Secretary of the Pratihari Nijog, Ramachandra Gochhikar, during a press briefing Friday.

Currently, Pratiharis are present from the opening to the closing of the temple, primarily working within its confines.

However, with the increasing number of non-Hindu visitors to the Sri Jagannath temple, the Pratihari Nijog, in consultation with the temple administration, has decided to station two Pratihari servitors at the main gate starting April 14.

Gochhikar said this service will eventually be extended to all four gates of the temple.

the letter said. Polling officials can avail this benefit by presenting their appointment/ engagement order, the letter said.

"The empanelled private hospitals should raise the bill in offline mode as per BSKY package rates to State Health Assurance Society for necessary payment," the letter said. Elections in the state are scheduled in four phases May 13, 20, 25, and June 1. Earlier, the chief electoral officer of Odisha had assured arrangements to counter the heat in all polling booths, including adequate drinking water facilities, shelters, and other necessities.

Temperature Likely To Rise By 6-8 Degree Celsius In Next 4 Days In Odisha

Bhubaneswar (KCN): Temperature across Odisha is likely to rise by 6-8 degree Celsius, predicted the weather department.

IMD has predicted the return of hotter days again with the rise in day temperature by 6-8 degree Celsius in the next four days. The weather department's latest report suggests that the maximum temperature is mostly likely to spike to over 35-40 degree Celsius by coming Monday.

The temperature may reach 44 degrees by April 17, informed Umashankar Das, senior scientist at IMD's regional centre in Bhubaneswar.

"After April 13, the temperature will start increasing and may reach 43-44 degrees by April 17. Higher humidity will remain in the coastal regions," Das said.

Inter-State Co-Ordination Meeting Between Odisha Police And West Bengal Police Held For Safe Elections

Cuttack (KCN): An inter-state coordination meeting was arranged with senior police officers from the neighbouring state of West Bengal in Cuttack to conduct an impartial and crime-free General Election 2024, to be held in four phases in May and June.

The meeting was attended by high-ranking officials, including the Director General of State Police, Arun Kumar Sarangi, Additional Director General of Police (Headquarters), R. K. Sharma and Director (Intelligence), Saumendra Priyadarshi. West Bengal's DGP, Sanjay Mukhopadhyay, along with senior police officers and SPs of border districts, were also present in the meeting.

Since the borders of Balswar and Mayurbhanj districts are adjacent to West Bengal, the senior police officers stressed the need for peaceful, impartial and crime-free elections in these districts. DGP Sarangi emphasised the importance of curbing the trafficking of deadly drugs like brown sugar, particularly from places like Lalgola, Murshidabad, and Bardhaman in West Bengal.

The meeting discussed in detail the enforcement of strict checks at border toll gates, vehicle inspections at sensitive locations, and the prevention of illegal activities such as weapons, liquor, drug trade and money laundering. The arrest of the inter-state criminals was also on the agenda.

The meeting revealed that a special plan has been prepared to identify sensitive areas of drug smuggling and prevent election-related violence.

Other topics included intelligence sharing, countering fake news on social media, joint inspections at inter-state toll gates, monitoring money transactions through UPI ID, preventing cyber crimes and curbing cannabis smuggling. The meeting concluded with the decision of special measures being taken to apprehend criminals with warrants and habitual offenders, ensuring a safe and fair election.

'Precarious' security situation in Myanmar: India relocates staff from consulate in Sittwe

New Delhi (KCN): India Friday said it relocated its staff from its consulate in the Myanmarese city of Sittwe to Yangon in view of the precarious security situation in that region of Myanmar.

External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said India is closely monitoring the situation in Myanmar, adding the Indian consulate in Mandalay remains functional.

Asked about reports of kidnapping of three Indian youths, he said the Indian embassy is working on the matter and hoped that they would be back home soon. Several parts of Myanmar have been witnessing intense fighting between the military junta and resistance forces. The resistance forces have already captured several towns. The anti-junta forces seized control of several military bases and a command centre at Myawaddy last week. Jaiswal said the security situation in Myanmar remains "precarious" and is deteriorating.

"We are closely monitoring the security situation in Myanmar, particularly in the Rakhine State. Necessary steps have been taken to ensure the safety of our citizens," he said at his weekly media briefing.

"We have temporarily relocated our staff at CGI (Consulate General of India) Sittwe to Yangon. Our Consulate in Mandalay remains fully functional," Jaiswal said.

The fall of Myawaddy was seen as significant as it is Myanmar's main transit point for trade with Thailand.

The resistance forces have already captured many key trading points along the borders with India, China and Bangladesh. Myanmar has been witnessing wide-spread violent protests demanding restoration of democracy since the military seized power in the coup on February 1, 2021. Rakhine state and many other regions have reported severe fighting between armed ethnic groups and the Myanmarese military since October last year. The hostilities between the two sides saw a rapid spike since November in several key Myanmarese towns and regions near the border with India as well fuelling concerns in New Delhi over the possible ramifications for security of Manipur and Mizoram.

On the reports of abduction of three Indians, Jaiswal said "our embassy is seized of the matter. They are working on it and hopefully, we will be able to get them out."

Kulesika Joins BJP

Bhubaneswar(KCN): In a major setback for BJD for Laxmipur Assembly segment, former MLA and BJD leader Kailash Kulesika joined the BJP today. Shri joined the BJP in presence of State President Manmohan Samal and other leaders, a day after BJD denied him MLA ticket from Laxmipur. The BJD re-nominated sitting MLA Prabhu Jani from the Laxmipur assembly constituency for the upcoming elections, on Thursday. This decision marks a departure from Shri Kulesika's expectations, as he had hoped to secure the BJD nomination after joining the party in 2021. "I joined the BJD after the party promised me to give ticket for the Laxmipur Assembly seat. But, the party betrayed me by denying ticket in this election," alleged Shri Kulesika. He also alleged that BJD assured him to give Special Development Council (SDC) and Rs 1 crore after the elections, but he denied it and joined the BJP. "People will give BJD a befitting reply for betraying me," he added. After joining him in the party, BJP's hope to win the Assembly seat for the first time since independence has been brighten. Shri Kulesika, an active organiser in the tribal area, was elected to State Assembly once in 2014 from Congress ticket. However, he lost the 2019 Assembly election on a Congress ticket to BJD Nominee by a slender margin of 229 votes.

Ecological Management Of Mettur Reservoir : An achievement by ICAR-CIFRI

Kolkata(KCN): Mettur reservoir is one of India's largest reservoirs. It significantly impacts on both fish production and industries. Many issues were there in this reservoir such as low water quality, disposal of wastewater and wrong fishing techniques. Small and rare fish catching affected fisheries there. ICAR-CIFRI introduced Ecosystem Health Card based on fish production, water quality and environmental model. The venture had been done during pre-monsoon, monsoon and post-monsoon in Lentic, Intermediate and Lotic zones. In Mettur reservoir, the observed value of the water quality indicators such as pH, Turbidity, dissolved oxygen, BOD, Chlorophyll, Nitrate, and Phosphate were 7.42-12.07, 71-659, 2.67-13.56 mg l⁻¹, 0.8-14.7 ug l⁻¹, 0.11-1.7 mg l⁻¹, and 0.32-2.44 mg l⁻¹ respectively. The disposal from the Industries like Mettur Sewage Treatment Plant and Mettur Thermal Power Plant varied the scores of the individual zones. In Lentic zone, this scored 63% and water quality 100%. So, this zone was classified in "C" grade in which standard level got matched with desired level of fair water quality and fisheries. In Intermediate zone, water quality scored 64%. It ranked highest with grade "B" showing 61-80% samples of needed standard along with good water quality and fisheries. Lotic zone was categorized into "B" with lowest score overall. Here water quality got 62% with less possibility of fish production.

Overall, Mettur reservoir received grade "B" in water quality and fisheries by ICAR-CIFRI. The reservoir can produce up to 162 kg ha⁻¹ yr⁻¹ of fish. But its current fishing is only 84.88 kg ha⁻¹ yr⁻¹. Well management resources can cover it up. The ecosystem model indicates that the reservoir is endangered as the total primary production value is 7.8. According to ICAR-CIFRI, immediate steps should be taken to control the catching of small fishes for balancing ecological strategy. Furthermore, stock enhancement is necessary for overall development of this reservoir.

Shab-e-Qadr: The Night of Decree in Islam

Waris Nissar

Introduction:

Shab-e-Qadr, also known as the Night of Decree or Power, holds immense significance in Islam. It is believed to be the night when the Quran was first revealed to Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) by Allah through the Angel Gabriel. This sacred night falls within the last ten days of Ramadan, with particular emphasis on the odd-numbered nights, especially the 27th night. Muslims around the world observe this night with intense devotion, prayer, and seeking forgiveness.

Historical Context: The importance of Shab-e-Qadr is emphasized in the Quran itself, where it is described as "better than a thousand months" (Surah Al-Qadr, 97:3). This indicates the extraordinary value and blessings associated with this night. According to Islamic tradition, the exact date of Shab-e-Qadr was intentionally concealed to encourage believers to seek it earnestly during the last ten nights of Ramadan.

Spiritual Significance:

Shab-e-Qadr is a time for Muslims to engage in various acts of worship, seeking spiritual closeness to Allah and seeking forgiveness for past sins. It is believed that during this night, angels descend to the earth, bringing blessings and mercy. Muslims spend the night in prayer, recitation of the Quran, supplication (dua), and reflection. It is considered an opportunity for believers to purify their hearts and strengthen their connection with Allah.

Observance and Rituals:

Muslims observe Shab-e-Qadr with special prayers known as Taraweeh, which are performed in congregation at mosques. Many Muslims also engage in I'tikaf, a spiritual retreat where they seclude themselves in the mosque for the last ten days of Ramadan, focusing solely on worship and supplication.

contemplation. Additionally, charitable acts and acts of kindness are encouraged during this blessed night.

Seeking Laylat al-Qadr:

While the 27th night of Ramadan is commonly associated with Shab-e-Qadr, Islamic tradition holds that it could fall on any of the odd-numbered nights of the last ten days of Ramadan. Therefore, Muslims are encouraged to seek Laylat al-Qadr fervently throughout this period, dedicating themselves to worship and supplication.

Conclusion:

Shab-e-Qadr holds immense spiritual significance in Islam, representing a night of divine mercy, forgiveness, and blessings. Muslims around the world observe this sacred occasion with devotion and sincerity, seeking spiritual elevation and closeness to Allah. Through prayers, recitation of the Quran, and acts of charity, believers strive to make the most of this auspicious night, hoping to attain its countless blessings and rewards.

HAPPINESS AND SMILE

boss is making difficult demands on us it may be hard to smile. When we are criticized for our mistakes, we tend to frown. It is hard for parents to smile when they are taking care of the child's every need at the expense of their own or dealing with a child's tantrums. But if we can learn to smile in the face of the challenges of parenting, we will be providing a model for that child to also grow up and smile in the face of life's difficulties. This will bring one more smiling person into the world.

The reality principle and pleasure principle are two competing concepts in psychology. The pleasure principle is the concept in which people seek pleasure and avoid suffering in order to satisfy their biological and psychological needs. As people mature, the pleasure-seeking is modified by the reality principle, in which the search for satisfaction does not take the most direct routes, but instead postpones attainment of its goal in accordance with conditions imposed by the outside world, or in other words, deferred gratification. Thus, the reality principle acknowledges external circumstances, and takes them into account, rather than acting and making decisions just based on wonderful way to dispel a tense situation. It helps relieve the pressure of life and puts us in a relaxed state. Going jolly and laughing has a component to our mental health. Those same happy hormones can keep us feeling mentally good. This can help turn around the feeling of being in the doldrums. Life hands each of us problems. Problems are a normal part of life. It is up to us whether we choose to be depressed about them and go about with sadness surrounding us, or we choose to smile. Our problem may not go away immediately, but we can face them boldly.

So let us 'go jolly' and turn our long face into a smiling face as we go about our life. We will find we are not only happier ourselves but that it has a ripple effect. We add happiness to our environment. The people around us in turn radiate happiness, which returns to us. Over time, this smiling atmosphere spreads. Little by little, smiles will emanate from us to our households. From our households, it spreads to our neighbourhoods and communities. Then each community, spreading happiness, can radiate to the whole world. Let us bring forward the happiness we experience in meditation to our outer lives and make sure we wear a smile wherever we go and gift a smile to whoever we meet.

One quality that is important to develop spiritually is to be loving and kind to all. This is often symbolized by one physical gesture that each of us can learn to make. We can bring joy into our environment just by smiling. A smile on our face can brighten the lives of all we meet. When we face life's challenges, it is hard to smile. When we have problems at work and the character is the bedrock of values on which our thoughts, speech and actions are built. A strong character is developed by what we do for others, but it is not dependent on what others think of us. The greatest test of a man's character is how he takes charge of his own life. Character formation, being the goal of education, deals with the individual and the entire system of his thoughts, beliefs, habits, values and his personality. The wonderful thing about character and integrity, which are intimately related, is that no one can ever forcefully take them from you. Your character is who you are; it defines you and guides your actions. Our character depends on how we behave when faced with challenges and adversities. However, character is not built in a day, but it is forged little by little, day by day.

A sincere, concentrated and patient effort is needed to develop a good character. When somebody asked Gandhiji, "What is your goal in education?" he replied, "Character-building". Martin Luther King also felt that the function of education was to teach one to think intensively and to think critically. He believed intelligence plus character should be the goal of true education. However, character is above intellectual knowledge. Education, by itself, is valueless without character. An ounce of virtue is worth years of scientific knowledge and performance, but we cannot hope for a good character.

2. Truth, harmony and liberty are underlying principles of a person having an ideal character. 3. There is a need to introspect on our present value system and to try to reinforce moral standards. 4. Education should teach the young minds that it is in sharing and caring that the world can progress towards goodness. 5. Ethics of teaching is based on the rich ethical inner self of teachers. So, teachers and educators should be trained as value educators. 6. Man should have an ideal character with a compassionate heart. Every effort should be made to utilise education for the purpose of divinising man.

My Kaziranga Tale

Prof. MANAS RANJAN MAHAPATRA

NBT and was offered the post of an Editorial Assistant. Alas, his brother was then Chief Minister of Assam. A phone call was sufficient, but Bipul never wanted. His madness was different, but he was a man of integrity. He could have managed the job of a Reader in the University, but preferred to remain a lecturer in a College than becoming a Reader as CM's brother. I am told that later, when his sister in law contested election, he openly campaigned against her.

We were passing through Koliabor. I was feeling like meeting Bipul, embracing him after so many years... my dear mad friend. But I did not have either his number or address. And, the night was fast approaching. We moved towards Numaligarh. It came to my mind that we should inform the Caretaker that we will reach late and will take dinner, for Aiyusman had already frightened us by saying that we can't get anything to eat outside after 8 pm... our only resort is the Numaligarh Refinery Guest House. I telephoned the Caretaker of the Guest House.

But the response I got frightened me more... the gentleman at the other end replied that he has to find out from the register if we have confirmed booking as our names could not be located, instead there were two rooms booked for the NRL Hospital. Aiyusman started joking... Sir, if we reach and find that we don't have reservation, we may have to spend the night with Rhinos as Kaziranga is next door.

It took us half an hour to cross Kaziranga, so huge! Aiyusman informed that Kaziranga has opened just two days back. We did not have a booking, else we could have stayed there.... with Rhinos as Aiyusman wanted. We reached Numaligarh.

My anxiety was over when I found that there are rooms booked for us. Satish and I relaxed over a glass of whisky and we went to dine. We were tired, soon deep sleep embraced us.

I got early in the morning, so fresh. The friend in the kitchen provided a cup of black tea and I walked out to discover Numaligarh. What I discovered was fabulous.

Numoli Kunwori (Numali Kumari) was the daughter of Cachari King after the name of whom Numaligarh has been named. It was a fort and the fort has 3 stories, all revolving around Numoli Kunwori.

The first story is Numoli Kunwori was the princess of Cachari kingdom. The king was old and ailing. There were a lot of enemies around. Suddenly the king died. But, Numoli did not disclose it outside and ascended the throne. People came to know about it and started accusing her that she did not allow them to pay their last respects to their beloved king. It created a lot of repentance in the mind of Numoli as she kept the news of her father's death secret. Moved by her own repentance and emotion, she jumped to the river and committed suicide.

The second story is equally tragic. Numoli Kunwori, princess of Cachari Kingdom grew up and took charge of the Kingdom from her father. She was a brilliant administrator but failed in love with a commoner. Those days royal people were not allowed to marry commoners. Failing to maintain a balance between own love with a commoner and the responsibility as a ruler, she jumped to the river and committed suicide. The third story is comic and pleasing. Numoli Kunwori, daughter of the Cachari King, was in love with a Naga young man. The king accepted his daughter's love and got them married. He constructed a Fort (Garh) and gave the vast area as well as the fort to his daughter. Numoli and her Naga husband remained happily and their children ruled over the area for centuries.

Time was getting ripe to prepare to proceed to Dimapur. I saw a small river 'Kalyani' flowing nearby. Numaligarh Refinery has 3 Guest Houses, Doyang, Dhanshiri and River View, the third one at the bank of the river. The caretaker is a youth graduated from IHM, Guwahati where I used to teach as a Guest Faculty.

But the Riverview

Guest House was under renovation. The caretaker offered me a cup of tea, he was probably impressed by my talking. I will come very soon again and will possibly stay in this Guest House. I told the Caretaker of River View Guest House and returned to our one to get ready to move to Dimapur.

ONE MORE NATIONAL ELECTION TO END A FRACTURED MANDATE

M.R.LALU

Nearly one billion voters in the world's largest democracy will walk to their respective polling booths to vote and elect a new government. This momentous journey of India as a democracy has been tremendously meaningful throughout its post-colonial life. Upholding its defined democratic values enshrined in the constitution, India has made a place among the comity of nations that have chosen to adhere to the path of democracy. There have always been divergent views on its democratic essence, especially criticizing its evolutionary practices. We were always under scanner from agencies and groups and countries across the globe that looked at India as a wonder, a landscape that houses the world's largest population and the one that has been faced with unspeakable instances of colonial aggression and invasion for centuries. Still it never failed to grow as a democracy that according to Narendra Modi is a glorious wonder that, in his case, made a 'chaiwala' its Prime Minister. Yet its growth as a unique society that holds the largest cultural and regional diversity with its civilizational unity underpinning its essential existence was denounced. There have been consistent efforts to demean, manipulate and disproportionately discourage its pride as a great civilization and its efforts to regain and revitalize its cultural roots have been viewed as a majoritarian belligerence. Though India's aspiration to emerge as a global power has been gaining momentum under the regime of Narendra Modi, it has also been deliberately vilified for this aspirational growth. The national election we are marching for is expected to further strengthen the aspirations of India and give it a fresh fillip.

Being Indians we have credible reasons to stay humble in a world that is deeply polarized in the name of religion, region and ideological differences. And from 5% to 15%. The situation is similar globally. According to the Inter-parliamentary Union women comprise roughly 26% of lawmakers Worldwide. In Rwanda, on the other hand, women hold more than 60% of seats. In 2008, Rwanda became the first country to have a female-majority Parliament. Women hold only 14% of parliamentary seats in India. There are 78 and 24 women members in the lokSabha and Rajya Sabha, respectively. India ranks 149th among 193 nations regarding women's

being the largest population and the fastest growing economy, we still have reasons to remain resoundingly joyful and distressingly concerned as well. The diversity that we are and the unity that we drumbeat about while ravages of war and ethnic conflicts cripple the dreamy fortunes of a large segment of the world population, India still survives on what it consciously calls its civilizational alignment that is by habit and principle accommodative and the collective wellbeing of the populace is being set as a reason for its survival. India's G20 Presidency was of course an indication, a journey that we decided to take the world which is infested by a mix of belligerence, intransigence and greed through the glorious wisdom of Vashudhaviva Kutumbakam (World is one family). The world is shaken by political turmoil and sectarian dissonance and many more destructive factors and at times what we face in India is a replica of what the world is reeling under. There is a new mood of confrontation sweeping through its underbelly and all that has been disruptive cannot be solved with political activism alone. For that even democracy sometimes fails to bring actual solutions. There, we as a nation need to grow beyond petty political gambles and understand our value as a peaceful civilization that holds the power to console the perils of people across the globe. Elections every term put India through tremors of disenchantments and excitements. But there is an unquestionable enthusiasm spiraling through our metaphorical motherland Bharat that houses almost 18% of the total world's population in every election season. In truth electoral democracy of India remains undisrupted with a large number of the country's population turning out for casting its votes. Almost a turnout of 960 million voters will be controlled and helped exercise their franchise by 15 million or more polling officials through more than a million polling booths under the country's powerful Election Commission. Democracy by all means especially in the season of election is a festive occasion for its people irrespective of diverging political views acrimoniously staying face to face admonishingly screeching on one another. Above all, the supreme judicial establishment on which the country has full faith frequently pulls up the politically authoritarian demeanor of the executive asking it fierce questions. The latest interventions by the judiciary had shaken the political parties off their saga of electoral bonds, asking them to be accountable and also commanding the bank to reveal the real line of contributors. By the apex court scrambling it forever, the parties are turned a mirror on to reflect as to what should be the depth of clarity and integrity and alertness that the electorate seeks through the process of democracy. In the lead up to the parliamentary elections, every term we witness an unsolicited combination of parties shamelessly teaming for relevance and the government piling up cases against opposition parties with an attitude of deliberate warmongering. Apart from that, there is a harsh temperament active in the air throughout this period. That even a mild disagreement and verbal clash on religious matters grow into severe conflagration exposing its volatility as a fraught society. Though democracy is expected to hold a sway on disruptive tendencies, it sometimes fails to maintain amiability. There are instances of instant provocation leading to the destruction of public property, while collective and revengeful collaboration of aggressive people block life of common man extensively with riots and riotous behavior, India is still known for its best democratic credentials. Again, there are instances wherein the disenchantment goes deeper as its democratic practices fail to deliver justice to its citizens equally. Given such realities, we have to also appreciate its attempts to shed imprints of colonialism. The present government, in a remarkable display of determination, began to change our approach to our true existence. Its efforts to democratically bring India's suppressed cultural ethos to recognition, has infused more confidence in the collective thoughts of its people. It is democracy and democracy alone is helping the country in its march towards progress. And it will be the single reason that would ensure its growth. Its development for all is its criteria for survival. Pakistan that chose to become a theocratic state has perished almost everywhere while India kept its momentum of progress exponentially smooth. Politics apart, India's demography and its cultural values definitely go hand in hand with its largest segment of population evolving through a momentous transformation. It considers the nation supreme and it does not allow rattling subjects of dissonance to dig deeper. Shedding colonial imprints one by one, we still have a long road to walk. National Elections 2024 seem to seek support for forces that relentlessly work

THE SIGNIFICANT ROLE OF WOMEN IN POLITICS & ELECTION

UMA SHANKAR PRASAD

Women in India are playing a vital role in politics and they are also demanding more measures to remove gender bias. Last September, the parliament passed the Women's reservation bill to empower women. This Bill ensures a 33% reservation for them in Parliament & State Legislatures. Both the Congress and B.J.P claimed credit for the Bill's passage. Congress leader representation in the Lower house of the Parliament. One significant measure in India was that in 1993, one-third of Panchayat seats were reserved for women. Which has now been expanded to 50 percent in most states. Nearly a million women serve as Sarpanches at the grassroots level.

General elections 2024 political parties are trying to attract women voters, a critical segment. To do this, they are offering various benefits. According to a recent report the high turnout of women voters could significantly impact the 2024 elections. The report predicts that by 2047, women voter turnout may reach 55%, while men's turnout could decrease to 45%. The Present General Elections will have 96.88 crore voters, with over 47 crore being women. 1.41 crore of the 2.63 crore new voters are female. More women have registered to vote in Kerala, Telengana, Tamil Nadu, Puducherry, Goa, Andhra Pradesh, Manipur, Meghalaya, Mizoram and Nagaland. Despite the passage of the women's reservation Bill the Participation of women in politics has not significantly increased. Though the political parties supported the bill,

To remove the gender bias, parties need to field more women leaders and candidates for women's empowerment. Political parties should focus on addressing crucial issues rather than relying on incentives to woo voters. Many parties offer incentives to women voters but do not give women equal representation in their candidate lists. Parties should reserve at least one-third of their tickets for women's stipulated by the women's reservation legislation. To bring the dream success women education is vital.

India's Rising Global Stature, PM Modi's Leadership To Likely Help His Re-Election: Survey

New Delhi (KCN): Unemployment and inflation are the main concerns of Indian voters but Prime Minister Narendra Modi's strong leadership and India's rising global stature will likely help his re-election bid, a survey shows.

The findings illustrate that benefits of India's world beating growth are starkly different for its 1.4 billion people as creation of jobs, despite PM Modi's domestic manufacturing push over the last 10 years, is still a challenge.

India starts voting in a seven-phase general election on April 19 that PM Modi is expected to win easily. Votes will be counted on June 4.

Unemployment was the primary concern of 27% of the 10,000 voters surveyed by Lokniti-CSDS across 19 of India's 28 states, with the price rise coming second at 23%, the Hindu newspaper said.

Nearly two-thirds, or 62% of those surveyed, said finding jobs had become more difficult in the last five years, PM Modi's second term as prime minister. Although 22% said "the most liked action" of PM

Modi's government was the construction of a grand temple dedicated to Lord Ram on a site that was contested by minority Muslims, only 8% said it was their primary concern.

India is the world's fastest growing major economy and its fifth-largest but unemployed in 2022/23 due to poor skills and a lack of quality jobs, official data shows.

PM Modi supervised the consecration of the Ram temple in January, a move increasingly used by his Bharatiya Janata Party in its poll campaign to highlight the completion of a long-standing Hindu demand.

At least 48% respondents said the temple will consolidate a Hindu identity, but a huge majority (79%) said India belongs to citizens of all religions equally, not just Hindus.

"No Condition Or Demand": AAP To Support INDIA Bloc Candidates In UP For Lok Sabha Polls

Lucknow (KCN):

Announcing unconditional support to the INDIA bloc candidates in Uttar Pradesh in the Lok Sabha polls, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) on Friday said that these elections are being held to "save democracy" and end an "autocratic government". "AAP will fully support the INDIA bloc candidates in Uttar Pradesh. What our role will be and how we will be involved in the campaign will be decided after holding talks with the Congress leadership involved in the campaigning. We will fully support the Samajwadi Party candidates," said AAP leader and Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Singh.

Addressing a joint press conference with Samajwadi Party (SP)

the Uttar Pradesh-based party's headquarters here, the AAP leader asserted there is "no condition or demand". "These are not normal elections, they are for saving democracy, ending the autocracy and saving the Constitution. We are together in UP, wherever the Samajwadi Party candidate is in the fray, INDIA alliance candidate is in fray we will work for them," he added.

Exuding confidence that the INDIA bloc will win the elections, Mr Singh said that every worker and elected representative of his party will work for the SP candidates.

Taking a dig at Prime Minister Narendra Modi over the arrest of elected chief ministers, Mr Singh said, "If any politician is winning, he would not indulge in such tactics and tricks as being done by the PM of putting opponents in jail by framing fake cases, it means lack of confidence at election time."

Mr Singh, who hails from Sultampur, was on a visit to the state. His party is not contesting the Lok Sabha elections in Uttar Pradesh.

Akhilesh Yadav thanked the AAP for the support and said the present election is not taking place in common circumstances but to "safeguard the Constitution".

Mr Yadav slammed the Central government for sending AAP leader Arvind Kejriwal and JMM leader Hemant Soren to jail before the polls and said the BJP was doing this out of fear of losing the elections.

Israel Strikes Gaza As Massive Iran Attack Threat Puts Region On Edge

the deaths of 1,170 people, mostly civilians, according to Israeli figures.

Israel's retaliatory offensive has killed at least 33,634 people in Gaza, mostly women and children, according to the Israeli health ministry. The ministry's updated toll on Friday included at least 89 deaths over the previous day.

The war began with Hamas's unprecedented October 7 attack against Israel which resulted in Security Council fails to condemn it, "legitimate defence... is a necessity". He added that "Iran does not seek to expand the scope of the war."

United States President Joe Biden had on Wednesday said Iran is "threatening to launch a significant attack on Israel," and pledged "ironclad" support for Washington's top regional ally despite diplomatic tensions over Israel's military conduct in Gaza. US Central Command chief, General Michael Kurilla, was in Israel on Thursday to discuss the situation with Defence Minister Yoav Gallant, the Pentagon said.

over the Lebanese border since October. Iranian Foreign Minister Hossein Amir-Abdollahian said late Thursday he had received phone calls from German Foreign Minister Annalena Baerbock as well as her British and Australian counterparts. In a post on X, the Iranian minister said he had told them that "when the Zionist regime breaches the immunity of diplomatic persons and places" and the UN urged restraint. German airline Lufthansa extended a temporary suspension of flights to and from Tehran until Saturday.

In their October attack, Hamas operatives seized about 250 hostages, 129 of whom remain in Gaza, including 34 the Israeli army says are dead. Netanyahu leads a coalition including religious and ultra-nationalist parties, and is under pressure from anti-government protesters and relatives of the hostages demanding the government get them home.

Tens of thousands have taken to the streets. On Thursday night, hundreds demonstrated near Netanyahu's Jerusalem residence with a different call -- for the war to continue.

"You, members of the cabinet, must state clearly that the fighting will not stop, that the IDF and our good sons will continue to crush the enemy until a complete victory," said Itzik Buntzel, the father of Israeli soldier Amit Buntzel who was killed in Gaza.

Washington has ramped up pressure on Netanyahu to agree to a truce, increase aid flows and abandon plans to send troops into Rafah. Israeli Defence Minister Gallant said on Wednesday that Israel would "flood Gaza with aid", using an Israeli crossing point, streamlined checks, the Ashdod port and two new routes organised with Jordan.

However, on Thursday the United Nations Security Council said "more should be done to bring the required relief given the scale of needs in Gaza".

The UN says famine is imminent in Gaza, much of which has been reduced to a bombed-out wasteland.

GI tag still eludes Nayagarh's Chhenapoda

Nayagarh(KCN): The world-famous 'Chhenapoda', a sweet delicacy having close links with Jagannath culture, has its origins in this district. While the whole state, especially Nayagarh and Odisha capital Bhubaneswar, celebrated 'World Chhenapoda Day', Thursday with fanfare, persistent demands for a Geographical Indication (GI) tag for this popular dessert have not borne any fruit yet.

People have expressed dissatisfaction over the lack of recognition for 'Chhenapoda'. Several institutions and outfits have met Nayagarh District Collector Swadha Dev Singh and the Minister of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises, Industries and Energy, Pratap Keshari Deb for this purpose but to no avail. However, after 'Kanteimundi Brinjals' of Kantilo in this district got GI recognition, hopes have been rekindled that 'Chhenapoda' will soon get the much-awaited tag.

However, concerns have been expressed over the inordinate delay in GI tagging of the sweetmeat. The district administration has proposed the same to the head office of GI Registry in Chennai. After applying through ORMAS, the application for the GI tag status to 'Chhenapoda' has been sent to Chennai on behalf of 'Krishna Chhenapoda Producer Group' in Machhipada. The district administration informed that a proposal received from the 'Madhu Baishya Samaj' has also been sent to the MSME, Industries and Energy departments. This district is known for its 'Chhenapoda'. The delicacy was originally made here taking inspiration from the traditional 'podapitha'. With this, the late Sudarshan Sahu of Satapatna village in Dasapalla area in this district attained the limelight. Locals said Sudarshan's father Bidyadhar used to run a breakfast shop at Dasapalla market square. Bidyadhar was assisted by Sudarshan. In the shop, some cottage cheese would go to waste every day. To prevent wastage, the family tried out a new way to bake it like 'podapitha' and the famed 'Chhenapoda' was born. Six years after Sudarshan's death, the people of this district celebrated 'Chhenapoda

Dibasa' to remember him on his birthday in 2022. Nayagarh's 'Chhenapoda' has now become gradually a mouth-watering delicacy not only in Odisha but even outside the state. However, at this juncture, disputes have cropped up over the real creator of the sweet. After the district administration celebrated 'Chhenapoda Day' in 2023, the dispute intensified. Some of the family members claimed that the real creator of 'Chhenapoda' was not Sudarshan, but his father Bidyadhar. With Chhenapoda being sold at prices even lower than cottage cheese, questions have risen over the quality of the delicacy. It is being made and sold at different places in this district. Along with its growing popularity, criticism has also surfaced both inside and outside the state over its quality. While the price of the main ingredient, cottage cheese is Rs 130-250 per kilogram, the rate of 'Chhenapoda' varies from Rs 90-300/kg in markets and shops, thereby creating apprehensions about its quality. Approximately 110 families are making 'Chhenapoda' in Machhipada village which can be called the origin of the dessert. Similarly, 90 families in Solapata of Odagaon block, 30 in Darpada, 15 in this town, and more than five families in Nabaghanapur are preparing 'Chhenapoda' on a daily basis.

Similarly, more than 20 families in Fatehgarh area of Bhapur block are preparing this much-loved delicacy. For this purpose, 'Chhenapoda' kilns have been set up where special confectioners have been employed. Once ready, the famed sweet is sent to Jharsuguda, Rourkela, Sundargarh, Berhampur, Keonjhar, Sambalpur, Koraput, Rayagada, Baliguda, Joda, Barbil and Bhubaneswar daily by buses.

Kotia residents asked to vote in Andhra

Pottangi(KCN): The Andhra Pradesh government is persisting with its efforts to woo the residents of Kotia panchayat under this block in Koraput district. The latest initiative has been launched by the YSR Congress Party (YSRCP). Its workers are regularly imploring the residents of Kotia panchayat to vote for their party. Not only that, YSR Congress is ferrying Kotia residents to their party meetings on the other side of the border. Sources informed that the issue of Kotia residents participating in the electoral meetings in Andhra came to the fore recently.

YSRCP candidate, Peedika Rajanna Dora from Salur Assembly constituency arranged for buses so that people from Kotia panchayat could participate in a meeting organised by him at a village close to the Odisha-Andhra border. People from Uparsambi, Dhulipadar, Neredibalsa and Tadibalsa villages under Kotia panchayat attended the meeting. Incidentally, Andhra claims these villages as its own. During his speech, Dora appealed to the residents of Kotia panchayat to vote for YSRCP. However, the issue to note here is that residents of Kotia reciprocated the appeals by Dora. They sang a song prepared for the occasion in praise of Dora and the Andhra Pradesh government. After the meeting, Dora personally met the Kotia residents and asked them whether they were happy with the development work. He urged them to vote for him and promised development work will continue if he is re-elected. He also told the villagers that the Odisha government will not do anything for their villages and only the Andhra administration is willing to help them. The villagers also assured him of their votes. The question is how will Odia

Meanwhile, local officials here said that they are keeping a close watch on the situation. They said steps will be taken to prevent Odia voters from casting their votes in Andhra.

Malaria rears its ugly head again in Keonjhar

Keonjhar(KCN): There was a time when this district was infamous in the whole country as a hotspot of malaria owing to the alarming rate at which the disease infected people and the large number of deaths. It was brought under control in the last few years after the Health department organised various awareness campaigns and prevention programmes. The fear associated with malaria gradually evaporated from the minds of the people.

However, this year, malaria has once again reared its ugly head in this district. Health officials are concerned at the alarming rate in which this disease is spreading. In March, a total of nine positive cases were reported in this district, while this month, six people have allegedly been infected in Joda area in just three days. A few months back, the spreading of dengue in Joda was the topic of discussion, but now the return of malaria has become a matter of concern for all. Chief District Medical Officer (CDMO), Keonjhar, Dr Kishore Chandra Prusty confirmed that nine malaria cases have been reported in March. He, however, added that the final test report of the six suspected cases in Joda is yet to come. Locals said that unseasonal rains in the recent past could be the main cause of the rising malaria cases. Many people in Joda locality are down with cold and fever and their samples have been sent for testing. Only after the reports arrive, a clear picture about how the disease is spreading will emerge, they added. Among those suffering from high fever and cold, are infants also. Till last year, mosquito nets were being distributed among people and fumigation vehicles were being used in each ward of Joda Municipality. This year, however, the administration has not taken any such preventive measures so far. It can be one of the reasons for the spread of malaria, locals opined. Locals said diseases such as malaria and dengue can only be prevented if the municipality takes up cleanliness and fumigation drives, distribution of mosquito nets and starts awareness campaigns among other preventive measures.

I am very impressed with India's business competency and the employees' enthusiasm to support us on this journey.

Dr. Braun further highlighted that "The carbon footprint must be dramatically decreased to combat climate change, which is one of the major issues of our time. Mustafizur Rahman 2.0 - reigniting the 'fizz'

New Delhi: In the last two years, lot of things have changed for Mustafizur Rahman as the left arm pacer's declining form turned out to be a major concern for the national team management.

Since making his debut in 2015, Mustafizur is the leading wicket-taker for Bangladesh in ODIs and T20Is picking up 127 and 84 wickets respectively but in the last two years, his form had faded considerably.

Mehedy Hasan is leading the charts in ODIs (51 wickets) while Taskin Ahmed is topping the list for T20Is (33 wickets) since January 2022. Mustafizur during this time frame has picked 37 and 21 wickets respectively across the two formats.

Since 2022, Shoriful Islam and Taskin Ahmed are the leading wicket-takers respectively in ODIs and T20Is among Bangladeshi pacers. During this phase, Mustafizur's failure to produce magic in the middle more often than not put his place under scrutiny in the national team.

Since Hathurusingha admitted that Fizz is not an automatic choice anymore ahead of the home series against Ireland, this question has been posed quite regularly at different times during their international fixtures. Understandably, that raised doubts over the ability of the cutter-master and him being in and out of the white-ball playing XIs only further validated the fact that his place was not guaranteed unlike the past.

Chennai Super Kings' decision to include Mustafizur in their squad for the ongoing Indian Premier League was a kind of surprise if not anything else, taking his recent form into consideration and it was believed that he was picked as a back-up for Matheesha Pathirana. Mustafizur seemed well aware that it was make or break for him and seized the opportunity by grabbing four wickets on his CSK debut, courtesy injury to Pathirana. However, Fizz's form in the IPL did not surprise former Bangladesh pace bowling coach Allan Donald, who worked extensively with him till the last World Cup before quitting from the post. "I think watching Mustafizur, he got his confidence in his stock deliveries now. I mean his pace on deliveries not just his variations that he is so good at. I think Mustafizur's rhythm looks better than ever. He looks very well balanced and infact one thing that stands out is he looks fresh and he is enjoying his cricket but if I have to start at the beginning the rhythm is number one when the balls comes out and it got pace on. He got shape on the ball and that's one thing he was trying to adapt back in Bangladesh when everyone was asking what is going on

I am looking for and I think a lot of people default into a slower ball or off-pace deliveries because they are not sure about how it's coming out and when there is suppose to be pace on if you understand what I am saying," he said.

"When Mustafizur is bowling well and he is swinging the ball late. He started to show in the World Cup little bit not consistently but it was definitely happening certainly at training and that was the first sign when I said Fizz is looking a lot better and that slower ball is just you know as I said he is just so in control of it right now and he is bowling beautifully. I think he looks happy he is confident and he is their (CSK's) banker at the moment and it's great to see," he said.

"The issue I see with specially guys who are very good at T20 bowling and especially what Fizz is doing is taking pace of the ball and it's been unpredictable and more than 70 percent of 75 percent of time he is going to mix it up they tend to lose their stock deliveries so it happens with few bowlers it happens with Broad (Stuart) back in the days and few others I have seen before and just used to seeing taking the pace off consistently and so what that happens is you don't pay attention to how your stock deliveries comes out but what I think when I was there I would focus on a little bit more when he practices that he is very hard on his stock ball on pace ball," he said.

"I think he can close his eyes and bowl off-pace deliveries in his sleep and that's how tuned he is

Milne, Allen ruled out of Pakistan tour with injuries

New Delhi: Opener Finn Allen and fast bowler Adam Milne have both been ruled out of the upcoming tour of Pakistan, New Zealand Cricket confirmed on Friday (April 12). While Allen suffered a back injury, Milne injured his ankle during training just before the team's scheduled departure.

"The nature of their respective injuries meant they wouldn't be able to take part in any of the five match series, due to start next week in Rawalpindi," NZC said in a statement. "Plans for their return to cricket will be confirmed in the coming weeks."

New Zealand have picked wicketkeeper

Tom Blundell and uncapped allrounder Zak Foulkes as the replacements. New Zealand have already picked a second string squad for the series with the majority of their first-choice players currently plying their trade in the Indian Premier League. Blundell hasn't played T20Is for New Zealand in more than two years whereas Foulkes has been called up for the very first time.

"Tom is a highly experienced player and along with his wicketkeeping and batting skillsets is a leader in any group he is a part of," Head Coach Gary Stead said.

"He also brings recent experience in the conditions, having taken part in both tours to Pakistan last year. Zak has had an impressive season for Canterbury including being their leading wicket taker in all three competitions. He has displayed impressive skills with the ball, particularly in T20 cricket for the Kings. We also know he has skills with the bat and it will be an excellent opportunity for him to be part of the group."

The series, which will mark the return of allrounder Michael Bracewell, kicks off on April 18 with the fifth and final T20I slated to be held on April 27.

New Delhi: Melbourne Renegades have made a statement signing after agreeing a two-year contract with big-hitting Josh Brown.

The signing is a major blow for defending champions Brisbane Heat considering Brown played a major role in securing them the title earlier this year.

Brown made headlines when he smashed a record-breaking 57-ball 140 in the Challenger against Adelaide Strikers in which he hammered 12 sixes. He delivered in the final too, smashing a half-century against Sydney Sixers that helped Heat win the title. His exploits also earned him a contract to play in the Bangladesh Premier League recently.

Queensland Cricket General Manager - Elite Teams, Performance & Pathways Joe Dawes said that Brisbane Heat made a very competitive offer to Brown, which was eventually turned down. "We provided Josh and his management with a two-year contract offer that was very lucrative and a significant uplift," he said. "However, we understand the lure of a multi-year commitment for him as a player, even though we believed our offer was very competitive and more than fair."

"Our fans will justifiably be disappointed that he won't be with us going forward, and as a club, we are sad to lose Josh, no doubt. However, he will always have a special place in the club's history, and we are proud that the Heat provided him with an opportunity to showcase his skill and make the most

'Difference maker' Bumrah leads MI's revival

Mumbai: During the Mumbai Indians-Royal Challengers Bangalore match at the Wankhede in Mumbai on Thursday night, Ravi Shastri made a significant comment on air. He dwelt upon Jasprit Bumrah's fearlessness in bowling yorkers during the powerplay. Now, one might question the importance of this observation. However, given the minimal outfield protection, precision becomes an overriding necessity for a bowler during this phase, a luxury that can perhaps be afforded in other stages of the game. The execution of the toe-crusher, especially in the initial overs, is crucial as it carries the risk of being dispatched for boundaries.

While Bumrah did falter on one occasion, conceding a boundary to

Will Jacks, he remains one of the most effective bowlers in the powerplay, and indeed, overall as well. His prowess was evident at the Wankhede, where he dismantled half of the Royal Challengers' batting lineup. It was a different matter that the visitors could still manage 196, but not enough to test the power-packed Mumbai batting line-up which made a mockery of the total.

Despite the commanding batting display, the Mumbai win was engineered by the skill, accuracy, guile and penetration of Bumrah on a wicket that had little for the bowlers. The five-fer in the match was the right reward for his abilities and few bowlers in the league are as deserving of the Purple Cap that he holds now. Incidentally, it was the first five-wicket haul by any bowler against the Royal Challengers. Coaches generally advise against attempting yorkers with the new ball due to the inherent risks involved. However, Bumrah defies conventional wisdom by employing this tactic often, relying totally on his strengths of accuracy, confidence, and, above all, control. While Mitchell Starc may be the only other bowler who treads that path too, Bumrah stands unrivaled in terms of success.

Presently, he not only leads the charts as the highest wicket-taker this season with 10 scalps but also boasts the second-best economy rate of 5.95 (after Krunal Pandya at 5.50). His overall IPL economy rate hovers just over seven (7.33) - the second best after Lasith

Malinga among fast bowlers who have played at least 100 IPL matches. It is a feat matched by few when combining both strike rate and economy. With 155 wickets from 125 games, Bumrah's prowess is irresistible. Bumrah is hardly seen at the nets the day before the match, something most other bowlers avoid too, largely to stay fresh for the contest, but those who have followed him say he completes his routine without fail. He would bowl the overs he is told which is normally between six and 10 overs a net session depending on the format he is preparing for, and mostly stays grounded. "He practices in the nets. He has so much experience and confidence," MI captain Hardik Pandya said. "I am lucky to have Bumrah on my side. He does this over and over again. Every time I ask him he gets the wickets." Bumrah attributed his success to preparation. "Preparation is always the key. (It is) important to keep pushing yourself before a game," he said.

"I try to not be a one-trick pony, I have worked on this early in my career. People start to line you up. I want to have different skills. Bowling is tough, because you will have to take a beating. When things have not worked out for me the next day I would see the videos and analyse what did not work. (It was) one of those days where what I was executing was working (sic)."

Bumrah has an extensive armoury under his belt. He can bowl bouncers, slower ones, swing the ball both ways and of course can deliver Yorkers at will. He can unleash slow cutters, slower ball, someone like (Lasith) Malinga. He was the best bowler in T20 cricket, but Bumrah has taken over. You know you can bring him on and take the wickets but also be defensive," the RCB captain said.

He was supremely effective in the previous match too, against Delhi Capitals, claiming two wickets which came at the right time and gave a result to Mumbai Indians that arrested their three-match losing streak. The problem before the five-time champions is the huge chasm between Bumrah and the rest of the bowling lineup, something Ishan Kishan agreed saying, "the team is working on this." If they had addressed the issue from the start of the season, they would have had more than two wins from five games.
