BOBBY CHAKRABORTY'S GLOBALANTI-ADDICTION CAMPAIGN- RECOGNITION AND AWARDS

KOLKATA,(KCN):"Anti-addiction awareness should be taught right from middle school or adolescence, where all the influx of the good and the bad start seeping in the psyche of a child. It goes without saying how important mental and physical health are to life and how the two are interrelated. I have seen a lot of death and destruction in my own family, in the society around me and in my profession, due to this fatal trap of addiction. So my efforts to create this awareness, is right from childhood (classes 6/ 7) before it is too late...against all kinds of addiction (Cigarette ,alcohol, smart phones) and against all kinds of harmful popular trends (abusive language, online obscenity for popularity, gambling through online games, ragging,bullying etc.) through my interactive awareness program called 'I AM THE KING OF MY MIND'." – Bobby Chakraborty. India's renowned actor, social activist, acting coach Bobby Chakraborty, is spreading this awareness, free of cost, for more than a decade now. He has reached more than 400 schools, colleges and universities in villages and cities within India and abroad. There are students like Ankit, Sumit, Shreyan, Ritam, Sampurna and many others, who are his loyal soldiers and volunteers of his vast army. This very popular awareness program has won numerous awards and felicitations from many, including the Governor of West Bengal(twice) , West Bengal Police, Vice President of India, world famous His Holiness Dalai Lama etc. Very soon, on 13th January, he is going to receive the much coveted 'Bharat Dignity Award' from 'News Mania'. If all goes well, he will soon be going to schools and colleges in Bangladesh with his awareness program. In this society, where a large section of the youth is fatally ending up under the influence of various types of addiction and harmful social trends, we applaud this much needed awareness drive by Mr. Bobby Chakraborty.

Bigg Boss Tamil 7: Vanitha Vijaykumar Allegedly Attacked By Evicted Contestant Pradeep Antony's Supporter

Popular south actress and former Bigg Boss Tamil 3 contestant Vanitha Vijayakumar has reportedly been attacked by a man who claimed to be a fan of actor Pradeep Antony, the evicted contestant of the ongoing Bigg Boss Tamil Season 7. Vanitha took to her X (formerly known as Twitter) handle and dropped a shocking photo of her injured face. Her post showed her injured eye, and visibly swollen and discoloured face. The actress, in a series of posts, alleged that she was attacked by a mysterious man in the middle of the night and suspects a 'Bigg Boss Tamil 7' connection. She alleged that the attacker was apparently unhappy with the fact that she supported the red card issued to Pradeep in the Kamal Haasan-hosted reality show. 'Bigg Boss Tamil' season seven is currently in full swing on Vijay TV and Disney Plus Hotstar. Vanitha's daughter Jovika is also one of the contestants. Vanatha, who reviews the show on a daily basis, had a late-night dinner and went to park her car at her sister's place when the unfortunate incident happened.

"Ni support vera (You escaped) and hit me hard on my face and fled away. I was in so much pain bleeding in my face and yelling. No one around was around I am I called my sister to come down she urged me to go report this incident to police but i told her I lost trust in the process (sic)", she further wrote. She continued, "I took first aid and left home with rage and not able to identify my attacker. He laughed like a lunatic which haunts my ears. Taking a break from everything as i am not in a physical condition to appear on screen. For those who support disturbed ppl danger is just a feet away (sic)." Vanitha, who has been active on social media, continues to express her thoughts and comments on the controversies around the 'Bigg Boss 7 Tamil'. Actor Pradeep Antony recently got expelled from the Bigg Boss Tamil 7 over reportedly his inappropriate behavior towards female co-contestants. Ever, since his exit from the show, the actor has been hitting the headlines for his social media posts. "It is my personal space which I use to share my happiness with my friends. It is not that I don't consider you my friend but I'm not in a place I can trust and let anyone inside my life. My Instagram page has photos of friends and family. I feel social media is a mix of positives and negatives and it can tend to attack you on a very personal level. I can take criticism well, but I don't want my friends and family's privacy to be attacked. I'll share the portion of my life I want to share with the public on Twitter on whatever platform I feel comfortable with, but certain things I only want to to share and enjoy with my very close ones and not be judged. I hope you understand my situation," he shared.

Prime Video's Maitri: Female First Collective Hosts Its First Session In Chennai

Prime Video released the latest session of 'Maitri: Female First Collective', hosting its maiden discussion in Chennai. Launched last year, the collective is an endeavour to create a safe space where women from the Indian media and entertainment industry can come together to discuss their experiences, challenges and successes, and offer their perspective on bringing about a positive shift.

The session featured 8 eminent women from India's various entertainment industries, ranging from award-winning prolific actors who have worked across languages like Malavika Mohanan, Aishwarya Rajesh and Madhoo, to women who have left an indelible mark behind the camera, like creator, writer, showrunner & producer Reshma Ghatala, writer & director Swathi

Raghuraman, and cinematographer Yamini Yagnamurthy, in addition to Aparna Purohit, creator – Maitri & head of India Originals, Prime Video, and Smriti Kiran, creator and curator of Maitri & founder, Polka Dots LightBox. Sharing personal anecdotes, the participants discussed the existing gender dynamics in the film industry, the challenges faced by female professionals, including stereotyping, colourism, ageism, and much more. Surprisingly, the women noted how the issues were similar irrespective of whether they worked in front of the camera or behind it, or whether they worked in production or corporate roles. The core discussion also touched upon the true essence of feminism and empowerment, what gender-equality really means for the trailblazers gathered in the room. An interesting insight that was shared by all was that true equality can be achieved when the industry stops tagging a particular role, a narrative or a job as woman-oriented or male-oriented. The group as a whole agreed that age-old conditioning often restricts the personal and professional growth potential of women, and can be changed only if it is internalized in one's home and social environment. The interaction also highlighted the critical role that streaming was playing in improving female representation, creating new opportunities for actors, regardless of their age, body size, or skin colour, and for creators to tell all kinds of unique stories. "Equitable representation opens up a new world for young girls to draw inspiration from, making it all the more important to have women in positions of influence, where they can provide a platform for newer voices and open up doors for more women," said Aparna Purohit, creator – Maitri & head of India Originals, Prime Video. "However, we know that change is a gradual process. It is, therefore, important for us to continue having these discussions across the country, and we are thrilled to have hosted our first session in Chennai. Even though it is only a year old, Maitri has managed to drive change in the right direction. It is heartening to see people having a conversation about diversity, equity and inclusion when writing or planning their projects." Speaking about the need to have such conversations frequently, Smriti Kiran, creator & curator of Maitri and founder, Polka Dots LightBox said, "There is an undeniable need for spaces where women can voice their stories without any fear. Creating an environment that allows women to share their experiences without judgement is the first step in enabling any change, whether it is in the industry or society. This is precisely why we have to keep the conversation going relentlessly. Thrilled that Maitri is in Chennai today, tomorrow it will be in another part of India. We will continue to connect women across sections and states through conversation and collaboration."

The future of education lies in inclusivity, adaptability, and forward-thinking approaches

Vijay GarG

The landscape of higher education is on the cusp of revolutionary changes as 2024 begins. Emerging trends are reshaping traditional paradigms and educational institutions must be prepared to adapt to stay ahead. Following are the key trends and innovations that will redefine the educational experience in the higher education domain and provide insights into the dynamic future of learning. Quality in hybrid learning As 2024 has arrived, the traditional boundaries of classrooms and textbooks are giving way to the liberating concept of hybrid learning models. These models seamlessly incorporate online and face-to-face interactions which represent not just a passing trend, but a long-term educational revolution. The driving force behind this significant shift is to create a flexible and relevant group of students and provide them with fluid learning experiences. Hybrid learning not only expands the geographical reach but also caters to the diverse needs of the students by offering an overall educational journey. The growth of these models opens avenues for innovation, allowing educational entrepreneurs to create impactful courses with global reach. Focus on mental health In 2024, the well-being and mental health of students will be given the topmost priority. Recognising the fact that mental health is integral for academic success and good quality of life, institutions are reimagining student support services. Beyond addressing mental health concerns reactively, the emphasis is now on adopting preventive measures and creating a resilient academic environment. While creating a culture of empathy and support it has to be ensured that students end up becoming resilient. Sports, sleeping habits, spiritual guidance, and the right peer group can prove to be instrumental in this process. Upskilling and lifelong learning The evolving landscape of work and education is driving the imperative for lifelong learning and upskilling. Now that 2024 has arrived, traditional degree programmes are expanding to include modular and skill-based learning programmes. These programmes are designed in collaboration with industry partners to enable the professionals to continuously update their skills in response to changing industry needs. The concept of lifelong learning is transforming alumni networks into lifelong engagement models where graduates return periodically for upskilling and retraining. This shift not only benefits individuals, but also cultivates a community of engaged professionals by contributing to the institutions' reputation and appeal. Competency education Competency-based education is gaining prominence within the educational landscape. Unlike traditional models that emphasise time-based metrics, competency education focuses on mastering specific skills and knowledge. By aligning education with the demands of the real-world, competency based education prepares students for the workforce by prioritising hands on skills over theoretical knowledge. While implementing competency-based education poses challenges such as curriculum redesign and assessment methods, it offers a unique opportunity for new universities to stand out in the educational market. Due to its emphasis on mastering the skills, personalisation, and alignment with workforce needs, competency education is relevant and effective educational paradigm. Evolving LMS Integrating the Learning Management Systems (LMS) with the educational domain is of utmost priority. Modern LMS platforms go beyond being repositories of course materials, incorporating artificial intelligence, data analytics, and personalised learning routes. These systems provide accessibility, flexibility and efficiency by catering to the demands of both traditional and hybrid learning models. While the initial investment in a sophisticated LMS is substantial, its long-term benefits in terms of cost savings, streamlined administration, and enhanced student experiences make it a strategic investment for many new universities. Sustainable success of universities One of the pressing questions for those contemplating the establishment of a university is the cost involved. The financial considerations for opening a university in 2024 will be multifaceted which will be influenced by factors such as location, scale, and institutional focus. The geographical location significantly impacts both initial and ongoing costs with urban settings often incurring higher expenses. The desired size and type of institution, whether research-focused or specializing in liberal arts, also play a pivotal role in determining budgetary requirements. Rigorous financial planning guided by educational financial advisors is crucial to ensure not only the establishment, but also sustainable success of the university. As the educational landscape undergoes transformative shifts, educational leaders must stay agile and responsive to these trends. The future of education lies in inclusivity, adaptability, and forward-thinking approaches.

As Alpha in nature, all female forms are valuable, as each one creates a new life. Only the strongest or smartest male gets the chance to impregnate females. The female may either pair with one male all her life, or she may just present herself to him during the mating season. But the male, mostly, has to compete with other males for her attention by exposing himself to risk and injury when he fights rival males or when he displays his colours or plumage, in full view of predators. However, among humans, the effort has been to overturn this law of nature, which is discernible in the different forms of vivaha or marriage, found in the puranas. Prajapati-vivaha, where the boy approaches the girl's father for her hand in marriage. Brahma-vivaha, where the girl's father approaches the boy for his hand in marriage, and even offers dowry. Deva-vivaha, where the daughter is given to the man as fee for services rendered to the father. Rishi-vivaha, where the daughter is given to a sage along with a bullock and a cow in order to enable the sage to perform yajna. Gandharva-vivaha, or marriage based on love of man for woman, that does not care for social sanction. Asura-vivaha, where the girl is purchased. Rakshasa-vivaha, where the girl is abducted. Pisachavivaha, where the girl is raped while she is asleep. In the Mahabharata, Shantanu cannot get wives he loves until he gives them what they want. His first wife, Ganga, demands complete freedom, which includes killing their newborns.

The second wife, Satyawati, demands that her children, not Ganga's, are declared heirs. Satyawati gets daughters-in-law very differently: she orders her stepson, Devavrata, to simply kidnap them. Kunti selects her husband while Madri is purchased. Gandhari's father is approached for her hand in marriage, but she is not told that her husband is blind. Kunti's daughter-in-law, Draupadi, is a trophy of an archery contest and ends up being shared by the five Pandava brothers. Thus, we see a clear shift in the status of women from one generation to another.

The Mahabharata informs us that there was a time when women and men were free to go to whoever they pleased. Apsaras make love to rishis and simply walk away, often leaving them to take care of their young. Urvashi curses Arjuna that his genitals will fall off because he does not satisfy her.

The Bhagavata Purana tells the story of Usha, a princess who kidnaps Krishna's grandson, Aniruddha, because he is so handsome. Also in the Mahabharata is the story of the origin of marriage. Shvetaketu discovers his mother in the arms of another man, but the father, Uddalaka, is not upset. Shvetaketu wonders how he can be sure that he is his father's son. So, he institutes the law of marriage that requires the wife to be faithful to her husband. But he can ask her to go to another man if he is unable to impregnate her himself. In a society that wanted all men to have wives, women's freedom had to be curtailed. Laws had to be created so that she did not leave her husband for a better or more desirable man.

Chastity of women served to allay male anxiety over their incompetence and inadequacy. With a wife at home obliged to be faithful to him, the man had nothing to fear. His fidelity was not a matter of law, but a matter of choice. When he was faithful, he became worthy of adoration, like Rama, the only divinity in Hindu mythology to have the title of ekam-patni-vrata, faithful to one wife.

In the Adbhuta Ramayana, Sita is described as slaying a demon with a hundred heads, suggesting that she is capable of easily slaying Ravana who has only 10, but chooses to downplay her power to establish Rama as God. But, modern storytellers — even on TV — prefer versions that portray her as a weak woman who breaks down when Rama abandons her. They refuse to highlight Sita, who comfortably raises her children alone in the forest, just like Shakuntala, Hidimbi and Kunti. Apparently, men still want women to be victims, needing to be rescued, as dependent creatures, unlike the female in nature, who is quite capable of taking care of herself and her family.

Intach Cuttack Team Come Upon Ancient Maritime Light Post in Prachi Valley

Cuttack (KCN): A team from the Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage Cuttack Chapter have stumbled upon the ruins of an ancient maritime Lamp post in Telikuda Village of Kakatpur Block in Puri district. The broken lamppost was discovered in a neglected condition over a sand dune on the bank of Kadua River near its estuarine point. The existence of the lamp post was reported to the Intach's Cuttack Chapter by a local heritage enthusiast Satyajit Swain. The remnants on the top of the sand dune were discovered when the place was cleared of vegetation for making a temple. A team from

INTACH, lead by Deepak Kumar Nayak which included Anil Dhir, Biswajit Mohanty and Bikram Nayak had gone to Telikuda village to document this historical site. The lamppost was constructed using burnt bricks and stone slabs. The post had collapsed few decades back and locals had repaired it over a sand dune using cement plaster and bricks. However, the old bricks and stone slabs are still present in the foundation and lower portion of the fallen tower. According to Deepak Nayak, the Co-Convenor of INTACH's Cuttack Chapter, the finding of this ancient light post can shed new light on the maritime history of Odisha. Information gathered from the locals revealed that there was a pillar like abandoned structure on the top of the sand dune since ancient times. The post was nearly 15 feet in height and was known as the 'Alua Khunti'. A fire would be lit on the platform atop the pillar which used to act as a navigation beacon for the boats that passed through the Kadua river on the way to the sea in ancient days. The Kadua, a distributary of ancient Prachi River, was in ancient times navigable and had a flourishing maritime activity. The accounts of both the Prachi Mahatmya and Kapila Samhita mention the River Chitrotpala which flowed in the same path as the present day Kadua. The 7th Century CE

Chinese traveller Hieun Tsang possibly went through this waterways to reach the port of 'Cheli-to-la' close to Konark, Nayak has said. According to Anil Dhir, the Convenor of INTACH Bhubaneswar Chapter, who had earlier documented the entire archaeological remains of the Prachi Valley, this find further establishes the rich maritime activity which was prevalent in the Prachi Valley in ancient days. Dhir has already documented around 140 temples, 80

Mutts, 40 Ghats, Ports and Anchorages, River Forts etc. in his earlier surveys. The team had also discovered some very interesting archaeological remains near the lamppost. Out of them, a very old stone lamp, red black ware potsherds, fragments of religious sculptures are of interest. Er. Gopal Behera, the Convenor of the Cuttack Chapter is writing to the authorities and the ASI for making an expert study of the site. He said that this ancient vestige should be properly conserved and restored. There is certainty that much more will be yielded if a proper survey and archaeological excavation is conducted at the place.

Ajoy Kumar Hits BJD, BJP

Bhubaneswar(KCN) : Senior Congress leader and Odisha Pradesh Congress Committee (OPCC) in-charge Ajoy Kumar today slammed both Governing BJD and BJP alleging both parties looting the State.

Dr.Kumar, who has been given the responsibility of Odisha Congress recently, received a rousing welcome from the Congress leaders and workers here on his maiden visit to Odisha after the appointment. From Biju Patnaik International Airport, Dr.Kumar proceeded to Congress Bhavan in a grand procession through Hospital Square, Sishu Bhawan Square, Rajmahal Square and Master Canteen Square. An impressive bike rally was organised by the party. The OPCC organised a welcome ceremony at the Congress Bhawan for Dr.Kumar. Speaking to media persons, the OPCC in-charge said Congress will work with a slogan, 'Odisha for Odias.' Outsiders like BJD and BJP should not rule the State.

Alleging that people from outside the state have captured important jobs, mining operations and politics, the senior Congress leader claimed that Odisha is virtually being run by political outsiders who must be ousted in order to uphold Odia pride and save the state. People of Odisha want the affairs of the state to be run by those from the state, he said.

"There is an undeclared jugalbandi between BJD and BJP in Odisha. This jugalbandi is harmful for Odisha. The outsiders are running the State but no one is speaking about it. In all spheres whether it is in politics or contracting, business and employment, outsiders are ripping the benefit. Then where will the people of Odisha go?" Dr.Kumar asked. Quoting Abraham Lincoln, the Congress leader said, 'This State is for Odia, by Odia and of Odia ... no outsiders.' "As per our survey, Congress is in a very strong position with at least 70 Assembly seats while there is a strong fight position in another 15 seats. In Lok Sabha seats, we are in a strong position in 12 to 15 constituencies," claimed Dr.Kumar. "If one can see the voting pattern in Rajya Sabha and there is no ED raid on any Minister's properties in Odisha, it indicates that both BJD and BJP are on one side. While other state IAS officers' VRS applications were remaining pending for long long days, in Odisha, the application was approved in three days," he said.

So, Congress is united to fight with both the BJD and BJP in Odisha, which is a holy land, he said. "I left my Lok Sabha constituency for Odisha. AICC told me to fight for Odisha because this state is more important than the LS seat," said the Top Cop turned politician. The ticket will be given on the basis of winnability only. Those who left the party and were not in contact with BJP or BJD will be welcomed back to the Congress, he added.

Ambuja Cements and ACC’s ChangeTheStory campaign wins Bronze at theABBY Awards

Mumbai: The first sustainability campaign ‘Change The Story’ of Ambuja Cements and ACC, has won a Bronze Award at the recent ABBY Awards 2022, under the Green Award category. This category is awarded to outstanding communication that features planet conservation, sustainability etc. The “Change The Story” campaign aimed to create awareness about sustainability and showcase technology-backed solutions that offer effective and measurable outcomes in this regard.

The #ChangeTheStory campaign highlights a non-invasive bubble barrier technology, which will remove around 2,400 tonnes of plastic waste from Agra’s Mantola canal, thereby preventing its entry into the Yamuna river. The crux of the campaign lay in reaching out to a wide audience across India and globally—and communicating the campaign’s features. The campaign winning this honour at the ABBY Awards—often touted as the Oscars of Indian advertising—was designed in collaboration with Alok Nanda and Company and serves as another reminder of the crucial role sustainability plays at Ambuja Cements and ACC.

#ChangeTheStory campaign was rolled out across multiple platforms, including print and digital, reaching out to an approximate 32 million people. One of its lead video films conveyed the message, through the lens of a scientist, that it’s time to change the story by taking out the plastic and freeing our rivers of their polluted past. The campaign further leveraged the power of music and created a rap song across owned platforms featuring the campaign mnemonic “Bubble Sharma”. This was followed by a bouquet of informative posts and videos on social media. ACC and Ambuja Cements collaborated with micro and nano influencers to drive engagement around the bubble barrier technology.

The two companies were the first to launch an augment reality-based game in India, which created an immersive experience for users by illustrating the state of marine plastic pollution and the basic functioning of the Bubble Barrier technology. This game convinces the user to play their role in driving change by encouraging players to “bubble pop” their way to cleaner oceans and safer habitats for marine organisms.

Mr. Neeraj Akhoury, CEO India Holcim and Managing Director & CEO of Ambuja CementsLtd., said that the award served yet another reminder of the company’s efforts towards sustainability. “We are elated and honoured that a campaign that’s important to us has received the recognition that it deserved. Sustainability and business go hand in hand at Ambuja Cements and ACC Ltd. This will encourage us to further step up our efforts in this direction.”

Schedule clash 'a cock-up, but SA20 has to happen' says Conrad NEWDELHI:Shukri Conrad isn't short on sharp ideas. "We might have to practise a lot of our mankading skills ..." His audience, reporters at Newlands on Thursday after the second Test between South Africa and India, were left hanging for a second or three before he took the edge off the moment with "...only joking."

The levity faded fast as Conrad said: "It's still South Africa who are going there. We don't sing a different national anthem. We don't wear a different blazer. We're going to give our best shot. I hate the fact that South Africa go as underdogs because I don't think we should ever be underdogs, but we do go as underdogs. Let's not fool ourselves." Conrad was referring to the strength of the squad he has selected for the men's Test series in New Zealand next month. The rubber clashes with the SA20, which South Africa's CSA-contracted players are compelled to make their top priority. Consequently the Test squad has been significantly impacted: half of the 14 are uncapped, including captain Neil Brand.

Of the squad in the series against India that ended on Thursday, only David Bedingham and Keegan Petersen will be in New Zealand. The 16 players who turned out in the two Tests against India have more than seven times as many caps between them as those who will be in action in Mount Maunganui and Hamilton from February 4 to 17. Hence Conrad's quip about employing unorthodox tactics like bowlers' runout attempts at the non-striker's end. But no-one is laughing about the alarm far and wide over the damage T20 leagues are causing to the oldest format. A leading voice has been Steve Waugh's, who asked on social media: "Is this a defining moment in the death of Test cricket." In an interview with the Sydney Morning Herald,

Waugh was quoted as saying "obviously they don't care" with reference to what the ICC and the game's more prominent national boards are doing to remedy the situation. "I don't think Steve Waugh is going to care what I say, but I love how everybody outside of South Africa has become experts on South African cricket," Conrad said. "Our hand's been forced. Yes, there was a cock-up ... sorry, a balls-up ... somebody got it wrong with the scheduling, and this is why we find ourselves in this position. But the SA20 has to happen. It is the lifeblood and it's going to continue to be the lifeblood of South African cricket. If it doesn't happen we won't have Test cricket. "It's unfortunate that it is the way it is, but we all saw the value of the league last year. We've got to find a way to coexist with it and with leagues around the world, to ensure sustainability. Maybe there are powers higher up who also need to start taking new stances on where Test cricket sits for nations outside the big three."

South Africa's cricket industry is chronically unstable financially. In September, CSA declared losses of USD6.4-million. And that was held up as good news - a bigger deficit had been anticipated. The SA20 turned an unexpected profit in last year's inaugural edition, USD1.9-million of which went to CSA. That's USD300,000 more than Australia earned for beating India in the WTC final at the Oval in June. The truth is cricket in South Africa needs money more than it needs WTC points. Burning 24 of them in New Zealand, should that happen, isn't too high a price to pay for another SA20 windfall. No, that isn't a joke.

Australia celebrate with the Benaud-Qadir trophy

Mujeeb returns to Afghanistan squad for India T20Is

NEWDELHI:Mujeeb Ur Rahman, who has been in the news recently for his run-in with the Afghanistan Cricket Board, has been included in the national team squad for the upcoming three-match T20I series against India.

Mujeeb, along with Fazalhaq Farooqi and Naveen-ul-Haq, refused to sign the central contract for 2024. Mujeeb also missed the T20I series against the UAE to take part in the Big Bash League tournament while the other two played in the series, having held talks with the board. The ACB then revoked his No Objection Certificate, which brought an abrupt end to the 22-year old's stint in the BBL. Rashid Khan, the regular T20I captain, is also part of the 19-member squad but his participation in the series is in doubt as he continues to recover from a back surgery he underwent recently. Ibrahim Zadran will lead the team in the three-match series against India. Ikram Alikhil is also part of the squad, as the backup wicket-keeper batter, having been in the reserves for the UAE series. Afghanistan squad: Ibrahim Zadran (C), Rahmanullah Gurbaz (WK), Ikram Alikhil (WK), Hazratullah Zazai, Rahmat Shah, Najibullah Zadran, Mohammad Nabi, Karim Janat, Azmaullah Omarzai, Sharafuddin Ashraf, Mujeeb Ur Rahman, Fazal Haq Farooqi, Fareed Ahmad, Naveen Ul Haq, Noor Ahmad, Mohammad Saleem, Qais Ahmad, Gulbadin Naib and Rashid Khan. ACB chairman Mirwais

Ashraf said: "We are delighted to be embarking on our maiden tour to India for a three-match series. India is the top-ranked side in the world and it's very pleasing to witness Afghanistan competing in a three-match T20I against them. We believe that Afghanistan are no longer underdogs & have excelled well in the recent past and we look forward to a highly competitive series against India."

The opening game of the series will be played in Mohali on January 11. This will be followed by matches in Indore and Bengaluru on January 14 and 17 respectively. India are the No.1 ranked team in the T20I format while Afghanistan are placed in the 10th position.

T20 World Cup: New York to host marquee India v Pakistan clash

NEWDELHI:A 34,000-seater pop-up facility about 30 miles east of New York will host the marquee clash between India and Pakistan on June 9 during the T20 World Cup 2024. The development, about which Cricbuzz had reported back in September, was announced by the ICC while unveiling the schedule for the ninth edition of the T20 World Cup, which will be played across six venues in the West Indies and three in the USA from June 1. The Kensington Oval in Barbados will host the final on Saturday, June 29. The venue will also witness arch-rivals England going up against Australia on June 8. The full schedule is here. The facility in New York, which has been erected in the Eisenhower Park, will also host India's Group A matches against Ireland and the USA. In fact, 10 of the 20 teams will play their first match in the USA according to the ICC. The tournament will open with the co-hosts USA taking on Canada at the Grand Prairie Cricket Stadium in Dallas. West Indies, the other co-hosts, will kickstart their campaign against Papua New Guinea at the Guyana National Stadium on the next day. The 20 participating teams have been divided into four groups as follows:

GroupsTeams
Group A India, Pakistan, Ireland, Canada and the USA
Group B England, Australia,

Namibia, Scotland and Oman
Group C New Zealand, the West Indies, Afghanistan, Uganda and Papua New Guinea
Group D South Africa, Sri Lanka,

Bangladesh, the Netherlands and Nepal
Top two teams from each group will progress to the Super Eight, which will be played across Antigua and Barbuda, Barbados, Saint Lucia and Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. The two top teams from each group in the Super Eight will then progress to the semi-finals, which will be held in Guyana and Trinidad & Tobago on June 26 and 27 respectively. "Teams seeded first and second in their groups in the first round will retain that seeding in the Super Eight, provided they qualify," the ICC clarified. Speaking on the occasion, ICC Chief Executive Geoff Allardice said he was excited about adding a 'new frontier' to the game of cricket. "The release of the fixtures is made even more exciting for fans as we enter a new frontier, with the USA hosting a major ICC event for the first time. With 16 matches being played across three venues in the USA, it allows us to make a statement in the world's biggest sports market," Allardice said. "It will also be great to have an ICC event back in the West Indies, which has such a rich history of the game. It has hosted World Cups with great success in the past and this tournament will certainly provide a boost to the game there, especially with the final being played in Barbados." Vijay Srinivasan, the co-founder of Major League Cricket, said: "Major League Cricket is delighted to host the marquee opening match for the biggest-ever ICC Men's T20 World Cup at the premier MLC venue, Grand Prairie Cricket Stadium in North Texas. "We know that cricket fans from across the country will be out in force on June 1 as the United States hosts Canada in the curtain-raiser for the tournament. The match will mark a new chapter in a rivalry dating back longer than any other in international cricket, all the way to 1844."
