In Middle Of Lok Sabha Speech, PM Mourns Hathras Dead, Shouting MPs Silenced

New Delhi(KCN): Prime Minister Narendra Modi - in the middle of a fierce attack on the Congress and the opposition in Parliament this evening - broke off to inform the House of a tragedy in Uttar Pradesh's Hathras. Mr Modi, who was fighting a vociferous battle with the opposition while speaking on the Motion of Thanks to President Droupadi Murmu's joint address to Parliament last week, paused and told his fellow MPs of the tragedy. As he did so, the Lok Sabha, which seconds earlier had reverberated with the shrieks and screams and chants of opposition MPs targeting the PM fell completely silent. "In the midst of these discussions I have also been given sad news. It has come to my attention that there have been many tragic deaths in the stampede in Hathras..." the Prime Minister said. "I express my condolences to those who lost their lives (and) hope for the speedy recovery of the injured," he added, as murmurs broke from MPs preparing to add the Hathras stampede to their arsenal of weapons against Mr Modi and his ruling BJP, which is also in power in Uttar Pradesh. Mr Modi also said senior central government officers had been instructed to contact their state counterparts to coordinate rescue and aid efforts. "Through this forum, I assure everyone that all possible assistance will be provided to the victims," he said. The PM's office has announced ₹ 2 lakh compensation to each of the families of those killed and 50,000 to each of those injured. The Hathras Lok Sabha MP - the BJP's Anoop Pradhan - said he had spoken to district officers but declined to comment on the number of dead. The injured, he said, were being at hospitals.

said, were being treated at hospitals. Before and after the Prime Minister's mention of the Hathras stampede, the opposition threw a wall of noise - protests, slogans, and screams - at Mr Modi as he was speaking. Such was the relentless sloganeering that Speaker Om Birla appeared to lose his temper on more than one occasion as he tried, without any success, to control the shrieking opposition.

Richa Chadha-Ali Fazal's 'Girls Will...' wins big at Indian Film Festival Los Angeles

Richa Chadha and Ali Fazal's critically acclaimed film 'Girls Will Be Girls', directed by Shuchi Talati, won the grand jury prize at the Indian Film Festival of Los Angeles (IFFLA). The film, backed by Richa and Ali, had already won several accolades. 'Girls Will Be Girls' had previously won grand jury prizes at Transylvania International Film Festival in Romania and Biarritz Film Festival in France. It also won two major awards at the Sundance Film Festival 2024. The coming-of-age drama stars Kani Kusruti and Preeti Panigrahi in lead roles. The film's unique narrative and compelling performances have garnered numerous awards, showcasing the talent and vision behind its creation. Sharing their happiness about their film winning big at IFFLA, mother-to-be Richa Chadha stated, "Winning the Grand Jury Prize at IFFLA is an incredible honor. It's gratifying to see the hard work and dedication of our entire team being recognized on such a prestigious platform. 'Girls Will Be Girls' is a story close to our hearts, and we are thrilled that it continues to resonate with audiences globally." She added, "This is the third win for the film this month, which is huge. The response has been overwhelming and the love the film is getting is truly exceptional. We couldn't be more happy with a better debut as producers". Ali Fazal said, "This journey has been nothing short of magical. From Sunburn to Cannes and now IFFLA, each accolade reaffirms our belief in the power of authentic storytelling. We are grateful for the support and love we've received, and we're excited to see where 'Girls Will Be Girls' will go next." 'Girls Will Be Girls', an Indo-French co-production, is a coming-of-age drama about 16-year-old Mira, portrayed by Preeti Panigrahi, and her tense relationship with her mother. Set in a strict boarding school in the Himalayas, the film explores Mira's journey of teenage love through the lens of societal judgement of female desire.

Prime Video's Maitri: Female First Collective Hosts Its First Session In Chennai

Prime Video released the latest session of 'Maitri: Female First Collective', hosting its maiden discussion in Chennai. Launched last year, the collective is an endeavour to create a safe space where women from the Indian media and entertainment industry can come together to discuss their experiences, challenges and successes, and offer their perspective on bringing about a positive shift.

The session featured 8 eminent women from India's various entertainment industries, ranging from award-winning prolific actors who have worked across languages like Malavika Mohanan, Aishwarya Rajesh and Madhoo, to women who have left an indelible mark behind the camera, like creator, writer, showrunner & producer Reshma Ghatala, writer & director Swathi Raghuraaman, and cinematographer Yamini Yagnamurthy, in addition to Aparna Purohit, creator - Maitri & head of India Originals, Prime Video, and Smriti Kiran, creator and curator of Maitri & founder, Polka Dots LightBox. Sharing personal anecdotes, the participants discussed the existing gender dynamics in the film industry, the challenges faced by female professionals, including stereotyping, colourism, ageism, and much more.

Surprisingly, the women noted how the issues were similar irrespective of whether they worked in front of the camera or behind it, or whether they worked in production or corporate roles. The core discussion also touched upon the true essence of feminism and empowerment, what gender-equality really means for the trailblazers gathered in the room. An interesting insight that was shared by all was that true equality can be achieved when the industry stops tagging a particular role, a narrative or a job as woman-oriented or male-oriented. The group as a whole agreed that age-old conditioning often restricts the personal and professional growth potential of women, and can be changed only if it is internalized in one's home and social environment. The interaction also highlighted the critical role that streaming was playing in improving female representation, creating new opportunities for actors, regardless of their age, body size, or skin colour, and for creators to tell all kinds of unique stories. "Equitable representation opens up a new world for young girls to draw inspiration from, making it all the more important to have women in positions of influence, where they can provide a platform for newer voices and open up doors for more women," said Aparna Purohit, creator - Maitri & head of India Originals, Prime Video. "However, we know that change is a gradual process. It is, therefore, important for us to continue having these discussions across the country, and we are thrilled to have hosted our first session in Chennai. Even though it is only a year old, Maitri has managed to drive change in the right direction. It is heartening to see people having a conversation about diversity, equity and inclusion when writing or planning their projects." Speaking about the need to have such conversations frequently, Smriti Kiran, creator & curator of Maitri and founder, Polka Dots LightBox said, "There is an undeniable need for spaces where women can voice their stories without any fear. Creating an environment that allows women to share their experiences without judgement is the first step in enabling any change, whether it is in the industry or society. This is precisely why we have to keep the conversation going relentlessly. Thrilled that Maitri is in Chennai today, tomorrow it will be in another part of India. We will continue to connect women across sections and states through conversation and collaboration."

CONSERVATION – WHAT WE NEED IS A CULTURAL SHIFT

There have been alarming repercussions that people across the world are made to face. This is mainly due to their madness of being threatening to the globe that once we considered our mother, that helped the human race survive and flourish and other species exist for millions of years. As we grow into a single clan of modernized minds all over the world with communication, transportation and tendency to come closer through innovative and scientific inventions, irrespective of geography causing hurdles, there seems a feeling of betrayal being sensed in the form of climatic disorders and environmental chaos. Man brought science and got him everything as he swung his magic wand of innovation and inventions. But there was something that was unpardonably forgotten, his compassionate communication with nature that genuinely nurtured his aspirations and ensured his existence. There was this deafening disconnect that began to bring disruption as he, for a long period, had forgotten to fine-tune his cultural alignment with Mother Nature. All he wanted was comfort and what he did was restructuring his approach. And what we lost was its compassionate embrace, a gesture that ensured our congenial existence throughout human civilization. More than exploration there has been insistent exploitation that humans frequently justified as an integral authority of his intellect. We have often made reasons to justify damages that our interventions caused on nature. Natural calamities, adverse climatic impacts and nature's depleting resources have been warning signs. But human greed has been the driving force that frequently damages our planet and the species on it. Our understanding was that they are totally inferior and our minds seem to have been occupied with dominant thoughts of disruption that we keep executing without even the slightest regret. For instance let us take an example. Religious events and moments of community jubilation ensure the slaughtering of millions of innocent animals. All that we want is to find reasons to display our might that otherwise, are excuses to establish our right to conveniently disturb their ambiance of existence or declare our displeasure to coexist with less privileged species. The common belief that has dominated the discourse is that man holds a divine right for disruption. Though he doesn't recognize the depth of rot he is creating, an existential crisis for him and other species is looming. But the usual fable deliberately declares his right to explore and if needed exploit the resources. This view terribly contradicts the very traditional belief in India which propagated the conservation of nature and the preservation of its essential values of coexistence. This includes the survival of a blade of grass to the macro elements of life. But what we need to keep in mind is an existence bereft of preserving life's variety of forms is totally dangerous. Advancing with meticulous scientific inventions, man's interventions have always been deliberate and one-sided. To consider him as an apex species and forcefully disrupt other species with his intentional survival tactics, especially focusing on ways to reap benefits, has definitely become a catastrophic move. An emotional shift in the minds of people towards conservation of nature and strengthening cultural values in tune with its natural impulses, which is suitable for the modern period, is a requirement. More alarming is the influx of different sophisticated gadgets into our sphere which manages to dangerously alter even the purest micromanagement of life called family. As the dominance of gadgets of disruptive sophistication has brought more silence and discord in their life, a small community of people under one roof is usually in mental disarray. So, basically, the human environment in modern days has partially been thrown into utter disorder. Ancient texts such as the Vedas, Upanishads, Puranas and the epics Mahabharata and Ramayana show profound respect for Mother Nature and there are numerous ways to conserve it and practice our traditionalist approach. There are multiple traditions through which the ancient Rishi attributed his respect to nature. The first one was his understanding of nature as a divine entity and therefore to be worshipped. Every element of nature was worshipped in different forms and names. They were considered the most venerable and the Rishi, for that matter, remained meditative on practices that he could invent and propagate for its conservation. Of course, India had maintained a spiritual stance on everything that was part of nature. That's the reason why we named rivers, mountains, trees and celestial beings individually and revered them, considering their power and share in making the resources available for the wellbeing of all. We respected life in all forms and did not hesitate to worship them. Our essential understanding revealed the truth of the divine being manifest in everything. Ensuring their existence was our means of establishing dharma. Protecting life in its various forms was an ideal doctrine. Sacred groves attached to temples in Kerala even today attract people for the elevation of their spiritual impulses. Groves were considered places of worship for snakes and spaces of existence for other animals. And the emotion was to literally protect them in every village from human atrocity. Sacred groves naturally existed as healing centers and places of spiritual well-being. The universe being composed of five elements, the Hindu way of life embarks on a serious understanding of life. It declares the five basic elements as earth, water, fire, air and space with which the entire creation is designed. The concoction of these five elements is instrumental in life manifesting in various forms, declared the Vedic aphorisms. India's recent diplomatic outreach also reflected this congeniality taking solid shape. Its G20 presidency with the declaration of "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam" which means 'the world is one family' was an attempt to make an ideal outreach to the global humanity. This was a declaration that sensed urgency for humans to go back to our cultural roots well before we destroyed nature's survivability. India's G20 presidency could bring back its traditional approach of interconnectedness of life onto the discourse table. This is because we, as a nation, have long ago realized the importance of coexistence, recognizing that humans, animals, plants and the environment are all part of a unified whole and therefore interconnected. Our fundamental belief system maintained reverence for nature and nurtured its resources. We believed in a natural order and balance in the universe and learnt to live without disrupting its harmony. Again, the reason that a large number of people in India still practice vegetarianism is this understanding. Our rituals and practices were fundamentally meant to promote environmental health. Sustainable agricultural practices without disrupting soil health were part of our collective responsibility. Time has come to plan for the future generations before we destroy their rightful share of resources. Earth is not only for humans. Our fellow inhabitants, right from an ant to the most gigantic mammal have a right to amicably survive here. Humanity in real terms needs to become humane. We can't end up as the last link of our civilization. We need to be known as the best part of its flow that kept plentiful for the generations to come, the flow that did not allow Mother Nature to dry and disappear.

Ganjam Migrants & Human Rights

According to sources, more than 7 to 10 lakh migrant workers from Ganjam, scattered across various states of our country in search of livelihoods. The migrant workers of Ganjam primarily reside in cities that are Surat, Mumbai, Chennai, Kolkata, Hyderabad, and Bengaluru. The young in Ganjamians finish their education up to class VII to IX and if drop out of school, they have to migrate out for livelihood. Surat is the destination for most of them. Hinjili Block is the migration gateway of South Odisha to the textile looms and cotton mills of Surat. A new migration connection is emerging between Ganjam and Kerala, marking a paradigm shift from the decades old connection between the Ganjam and Surat. Mostly SCs, STs and Christian migrants of the district prefer Kerala where the work is abundant, wages for unskilled work are higher compared to Surat and the employers are less harsh on the migrant workers. However, the problem is that the migrant workers who are leaving their homeland and scattered across the countries in search of livelihoods are being deprived of their basic fundamental and human rights. International & National legislation, policies and practice: Global conventions recognize social security as a human right and it was enshrined in the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR). According to the Directive Principles of the State Policy (DPSP) of Indian Constitution social security is a basic right (Articles 41, 43, 45). Article 14, 15, 16, 17, 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India to provide basic fundamental rights to its citizens in order to ensure their means of life, livelihood, and sustainable development. Various policies and programmes of Government of India and states aimed at providing social protection to interstate migrant workers. Health and Human Rights: With the increasing rate of migration within the country, the act of providing effective healthcare services to all remains a challenge. For example HIV Status Deaths and Affected Migrant Workers of Ganjam. HIV vulnerability is associated with various factors: prolonged or frequent absence from home; precarious financial status; difficult working and housing conditions; change in cultural norms; separation from family; low social support; substance abuse; mental health problems; lack of HIV testing; needle sharing; limited condom use; concurrent multiple partners; sex work; low HIV knowledge, and low perceived HIV risk. Though the social, cultural and other factors also are important, those involving in physical, mental health and sexual practices tend to have the greatest effect on HIV risk. 1800 deaths in Ganjam district and many more affected due to HIV AIDS. According to Government of India's Report of the Working Group on Migration, migrants are exposed to health risks including communicable diseases like malaria and tuberculosis. They are also exposed to sexually transmitted diseases like HIV, and occupational health hazards such as respiratory problems, lung diseases, allergies, kidney and bladder infections, back problems and malnutrition. They are stigmatised as they are being carriers of disease. Major Challenges for Ganjam Migrant Population: The major issues are rooted in the unorganized and informal sector such as 1. Interstate migrants are facing prejudices and discriminations. 2. Access to health care services and social security for interstate migrant workers is negligible. 3. No safe and healthy working environment. The migrant children, pregnant women and young mothers do not get the benefits of various government programmes. 4. The exploitation of migrant labourers by middlemen/agents has reduced the wage income of migrant labourers. 5. Their choices are varied between rented rooms, open spaces, slums, pavements and worksites. The most vulnerable interstate migrant workers are homeless, off-site settlements, that is, pavements and street edges, under flyovers and bridges. 6. It is pertinent to understand that Labour is on the Concurrent List and hence both Government of India and States should work together to address the problems of interstate migrant workers, where Ministry of Labour and Employment is the nodal ministry, responsibility is to ensure that workers' concerns are addressed by the States. The Office of the Chief Labour Commissioner is in a position to coordinate all States to sensitise their labour departments about the welfare of interstate migrant workers. But both central and state failed to address. 7. Central schemes relevant to the welfare of migrant workers are Ayushman Bharat, Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (AB-PMJAY), Pradhan Mantri Shram Yogi Maan-dhan (PM-SYM), National Social Assistance Programme (NSAP), Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Yojana (PMGKY), Public Distribution System under National Food Security Act, Pradhan Mantri Jan-Dhan Yojana (PMJDY), Employment Guarantee Scheme like MGNREGS, Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (PMAY). Benefits of these central and state schemes have not reached many of them due to poor policy implementation and it is constrained by the oppressive bureaucracy has resulted in the failure of these schemes to help the migrant workers and the unregistered migrant workers cannot claim most of the available social security schemes. The present situation reveals the lack of an institutional mechanism to address human rights violations against interstate migrant workers and absence of Centre-State coordination. For Example: During crisis of COVID-19 lockdown period had clearly revealed that an institutional mechanism was somewhat missing.

Lack of confidence and their fear of the system are highlighted as the major barriers for accessing health services. Migrants are engaged with low income activities which are concentrated in sectors with higher risks such as the construction sector, heavy industry, transport, services, and The hours of working is higher work compared to local workers. Considerable section of migrant workers' children could not get benefitted from schemes such as Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan (SSA) and the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education (RTE) Act, 2009 Several of them do not get school education and skill training. And No educational development means, there will be no sustainable human development, inclusive growth and human resource capital formation. There is a gap in the enforcement of existing legislation such as Building and Other Construction Workers (BOCW) Act 1996 and Inter State Migrant Workmen (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1979. These Acts were enacted to protect rights of interstate migrant workers and save them from exploitation. A large number of migrant workers suffer from poor housing and sanitation facilities, which is the major cause of disease carriers like AIDS to Ganjam district which is impacting their life, livelihood and sustainable development. Way Forward: A comprehensive policy implementation is essential to formulate coherent national strategy for ensuring formal structures in order to extend the social security nets, safe work conditions, healthcare services and treatment facilities to migrant workers in India. Migrants' access to health and HIV services can be improved only by adopting a human rights based approach in the good governance of the entire migration process. Migration has been shown not to be a risk factor for the spread of HIV and AIDS. Public health institutions need to initiate and reinforce more "migrant-friendly" services. Appropriate and adequate attention should be given in executing these initiatives efficiently and effectively in order to provide social justice and to promote human rights.

Infrastructure challenges

The roof collapse at Delhi's busy airport during record rainfall isn't just a tragic event but a stark symptom of India's broader infrastructure challenges. This incident, amidst a backdrop of similar failures nationwide such as bridge collapses and monsoon-related havoc exposes systemic flaws in planning, execution, and maintenance across the country. The issue goes beyond weather; inadequate drainage systems in rapidly urbanizing areas exacerbate flooding, turning urban growth into a hazard. The rush to complete projects, often timed with elections, prioritizes speed over quality, compromising infrastructure integrity. Infrastructure development must prioritize public safety over political expediency, ensuring long-term sustainability.

Governor Criticises Mamata Banerjee Over Mob Justice, Trinamool Hits Back

Kolkata (KCN): In sharp criticism of the Mamata Banerjee government over incidents of mob justice in West Bengal, Governor CV Ananda Bose said an "MB cocktail" is marring the law and order situation in the state. The Governor had today planned to visit the woman, who was publicly flogged in Uttar Dinajpur district's Chopra over an extramarital affair. But he put off the plan after state police told him that the woman wants to be left alone for now. "I was informed that the victim expressly desired to be left alone. I value those sentiments. The victim can meet me anytime she wants. She can come to the Raj Bhavan or I can come. Not for the time-being," he told the media when asked about his cancelled visit. The Governor then said that he had met several victims of violence recently. "From my discussions, and sharing of experience of the victims who met me, I have come to the realisation that Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's Bengal is not a safe place for women to live in," he said in scathing criticism of the state government.

Fullscreen The incident in Chopra came to light after a chilling video that shows a woman and a man being assaulted in public went viral. The assailant, Tajemul, has since been arrested. Opposition parties BJP and CPM have alleged that the accused is a key aide of local Trinamool MLA Hamidur Rahman. The Trinamool has said no one involved in the incident will be spared. In his interaction with the media, the Governor said it is a "very dismal situation" in many parts of Bengal. "Money power, political power, governmental power and brute power. It is a heady cocktail. As people say, Molotov cocktail. This is a kind of MB cocktail which is marring the situation in Bengal. Violence has become a norm rather than exception. Responsibility for this lies squarely on the Home Minister, the police minister and the police. It is up to the authorities and the government to ensure that the life of citizens are protected," he said. Ms Banerjee holds the Home portfolio in Bengal government. Molotov cocktail refers to an incendiary weapon that comprises a container full of flammable substance and has a fuse. While using, the fuse is lit and the container thrown at the target. When the container shatters on impact, a fire starts. Amid the outrage over the Chopra incident, Leader of the Opposition in Bengal Assembly, BJP's Suvendu Adhikari has posted another video and alleged that Tajemul is an accused in this case too. The video shows a man and a woman tied up with a rope as other men assault them.

"Episode 2 of Street Justice. Featuring TMC Leader Tajimul alias 'JCB' as Judge, Jury & Executioner. Just another day in Mamata Banerjee's Bengal, where conventions of 'Muslim Rashtra' are followed at will," Mr Adhikari has said. The Governor has asked the state government for a report on the Chopra incident. The National Human Rights Commission, too, has taken note and sought a report from the Chief Secretary and state police chief. Earlier, local MLA Rahman's remarks after the incident had fuelled the public outcry. Speaking about the public flogging, the MLA had admitted that what happened was wrong, but said the woman was of "bad character".

The MLA has trashed the BJP's allegations that the accused is a member of the Trinamool Congress and close to him.

T r i n a m o o l spokesperson Dr. Shantanu Sen has said, "Trinamool Congress as a party and our government in no way supports any activity like the one which has happened in Chopra. Police have taken suo motu cognizance and they are taking action. Responding to the Governor's criticism of Ms Banerjee, Trinamool leader Kunal Ghosh has said the Governor had used "cheap words" against the Chief Minister. "Such cheap words should not be used. Governor's position should hold weight. Everyone knows Bengal is safest for women and Kolkata is the safest city. This is according to reports of Union Home Ministry," he said.

Bengal Governor Biman Banerjee has, meanwhile, criticised the Governor for not clearing the West Bengal (Prevention of Lynching) Bill. He said that if the Governor had given his assent to this law, incidents of mob violence wouldn't have happened in Bengal. "There would have been some fear and they wouldn't have dared. This Bill was passed in 2019. It is unfortunate that we did not receive any information from the Governor or the President," he said. Police have said the man and the woman who were flogged in public have been provided security. "Efforts are being made from certain quarters to spread misinformation about an incident in Chopra PS under Islampur PD. The fact is, police has promptly identified and arrested one person who had publicly assaulted a lady," they have said.

No green gold rush in Jharsuguda

Jharsuguda(KCN): Kendu leaf business in Jharsuguda district stares at an imminent closure as climate change and rapid industrialisation have resulted in a sharp decline in collection of the important minor forest produce in this western Odisha district.

30 years back, the district was in great demand in terms of collection of kendu leaf but climate change and rapid industrialisation have impacted its production to the extent that the once-profitable business may shut down completely in coming days.

According to available data, 11,800.80 quintal of kendu leaves were produced under Jharsuguda kendu leaf division in 2017, 8,380.80 quintal in 2018, 5,988.60 quintal in 2019, 5,082.60 quintal in 2020 and 8,059.20 quintal in 2021. A target of 10,000 quintal was set for production in 2022 and 2023. However, the collection is stated to be only 8,632.80 quintal in 2022 and 5,204 quintal in 2023.

Unseasonal rainfall, hailstorm, cloudy weather, industrialisation, environmental pollution and mindless tree felling are behind the sharp decline in kendu leaf production. It is apprehended that kendu leaf production might further decline in the district if the situation persists.

While the collection in other parts of western Odisha like Bolangir, Titilagarh, Padampur, and Rourkela is booming, it shows a steady decline in Jharsuguda district.

Role of seasonal workers, munsis, chaurasi checkers, binding checkers, circle checkers and head checkers is important in kendu leaf trade.

Reports said six kendu leaf range offices function under the Jharsuguda kendu leaf division office. These offices are at Jharsuguda, Belpahar, Kadamdihi, Kanika, Duduka and Gopalpur in the district.

Kendu leaf trade was taken up departmentally with effect from January 1973 when Nandini Satpathy was the Chief Minister of Odisha.

There are 19 kendu leaf divisions in the state including at Jharsuguda. Over thousands of kendu leaf pluckers and hundreds of seasonal workers are engaged in the business under Jharsuguda division as they eke out a living out of it.

However, the decline in kendu leaf production here has sparked concern.

Every year thousands of men and women go into the forests with the hope of earning some bucks by collecting kendu leaves. The kendu leaf season starts in March, bush cutting in April, repairing of the kendu leaf depots in May, while plucking of leaves starts from June, the binding of kendu leaf for manufacturing bidis continues till October.

The seasonal workers are employed during the kendu leaf season and the entire process is supervised by kendu leaf rangers, deputy rangers, foresters and forest guards. The Jharsuguda kendu leaf division has 303 depots and gone are those days when the demand for kendu leaf was very high in Jharsuguda district.

Collection has declined to a great extent in Jharsuguda district after lakhs of trees were chopped off in 2000 to make way for establishment of industrial plants.

Lack of a favourable atmosphere is attributed as the main reason behind the decline in availability. As a result, thousands of men and women have been deprived of employment. Bush cutting has started from February 20 this year but it is feared that the production may reduce further due to unseasonal rainfall plaguing the district.

Moreover, villagers engaged in collection of Mohua flowers are setting fire to the forest. It is also alleged that kendu leaf is being smuggled in frequent basis from the Bagdihi railway station affecting its production. The seizure of kendu leaf by the Forest officials from Bagdihi railway station three months back is a case at this point.

The state government pays bonus to the kendu leaf pluckers and seasonal workers from the profit it earns from the trade.

How Rourkela overcame water crisis this summer

Rourkela(KCN): Given the protracted and hard summer days this year, Rourkela would have gone through a major water crisis. However, advance planning and implementation of some prudent measures by the water supply unit of Town Engineering (TE) department of the Rourkela Steel Plant (RSP) saved the Steel City from an imminent crisis.

Learning from the harrowing experience of 2016 when the City witnessed an unprecedented water crisis, the water supply unit began implementing its plans to construct embankments on Koel river, from where the steel major draws water for its captive township, since March this year. "To address any emergency this year, the TE (Water Supply) department initiated meticulous planning and execution. One of the pivotal measures was the construction of a cofferdam by the first week of March 2024," said an official.

The dam increased the flow of river water to the intake pumps, maintaining the water level throughout the summer. The department ensured proper supervision of the dam to prevent any man-made or environmental damage, he said.

Another critical step was ensuring the availability of pumps at the intake well. The Intake Complex in Sector20, equipped with three wells and 36 MGD pumping capacity, underwent timely overhaul and preventive maintenance before the summer. "The Met department gave an early warning, so we became proactive to ensure that the pumps operated smoothly without failures during the peak demand period," said the official. The regular cleaning of the intake was also prioritised for floating materials in the river which could have restricted the water flow to the pumps. The department conducted frequent removal of these materials, ensuring an uninterrupted water supply to the intake, the official said. Additionally, the operation of recycle pumps at BWW-Sector8 and WPP-Hilltop played a crucial role in water management. These pumps facilitated the reuse of wastewater from filter beds and valve leakages. "Strategically, we took a very important step. By operating these pumps at regular intervals, the department significantly reduced water wastage," he informed.

To further minimise wastage, regular inspections of drinking water distribution network were conducted. Any reported leaks were promptly addressed, ensuring the efficient use of water. The department's responsiveness to public reports of leakages also contributed to the overall conservation efforts, he added.

However, despite these measures, occasional complaints about water shortages were reported by residents. "We mitigated these temporary issues by supplying drinking water through tankers to the affected areas as and when it was necessitated," explained the official. Additionally, Jalachhatras (water kiosks) across the township were regularly replenished with drinking water to ensure public access.

All these comprehensive measures not only ensured a stable water supply for residents but also supported the township's parks and gardens, thus providing comfort to the residents during the hard summer.

In 2016, the water table of Koel river fell to an all-time low, while Brahmani too almost ran dry. To meet the demands of the captive township, the RSP then had laid huge pipes to bring water from Tarkera to the water treatment plant at Sector-20.

Stranded in Sikkim, tourists from Odisha plead for rescue

Keonjhar(KCN): At least 12 persons from Odisha including five from Mayurbhanj district have been stranded for the last five days in Sikkim as landslides and heavy rain impacted the Himalayan state severely, damaging properties, disrupting road connectivity, power and food supplies and mobile networks in several areas. Multiple landslides at various stretches in between Gangtok, the capital of Sikkim, and the Chinese border (ice point or zero point) besides collapse of the vital Sanklang suspension bridge, resulted in the severing of connectivity to North Sikkim, leaving around 1,200-1,500 tourists from across India stranded. Tapas Behera from Bisoi area of Mayurbhanj district came in contact with this correspondent after mobile network services resumed partially and urged the state government for help.

He said over phone that more than 12 natives of Odisha were among the tourists trapped in the northeastern state for the last five days. Due to disruption in road communication, severe shortage of food has led prices of essential items to skyrocket. So much so, said Behera, that they had to spend Rs50 to buy food items worth Rs10. Lack of money has also come as an impediment for their return.

India to see largest increase in energy demand worldwide over the next 20 years, says Infomerics

New Delhi, : India faces the twin dilemma of co-existence of shortage and abundance in several parts of its energy system. While the provision of electricity has increased significantly over the years, weak institutions and utility governance hamper the power sector's financial performance with issues of accountability, operational efficiency, customer service, and transmission to state-level transmission institutions. The sector takes a huge and grossly unacceptable hit due to extensive losses, leakages and pilferages, and the cost recovery from tariffs. These are some major findings of a report titled Power Sector in India: New Emerging Opportunities and Challenges released by Infomerics Valuation and Rating Pvt Ltd., the well-known SEBI-registered and RBI-accredited financial services credit rating company. The report explores the opportunities and challenges ahead for India as it seeks to ensure reliable, affordable and sustainable energy for a growing population. During FY20 and FY19, the growth of electricity generation was lower than in the previous financial years because of the impact of COVID-19. The report quotes the International Energy Agency (IEA) stating that during FY21 recovery in electricity demand from the COVID-19 pandemic was faster and stronger in India than in EU countries. India is the third-largest producer and the third-largest consumer of electricity in the world. With the increasing population, electricity demand is rising at a fast clip and India has improved its power generation capacity over the years. India has added more than 500 billion units until FY22 from FY10.

Sai Sudharsan, Jitesh Sharma, Harshit Rana added to India squad for first two Zimbabwe T20Is

stage, and his impact was due to his unorthodox action. He was unplayable with both the new and old ball, with the ability to open the gap between bat and pad. Marco Jansen's dismissal in the final was an example. He could have gotten David Miller out a few balls earlier," said Stephenson, who played for Orange Free State in South Africa. Bumrah's recent performances, particularly in the World Cup here in the West Indies, have ignited many tales that will be told for years. One story involves a fast-bowling great claiming that Bumrah would have walked into the legendary West Indies side of the 80s, although Sir Andy Roberts denied making such a comment. Bumrah is currently dominating conversations in the cricket world. His unorthodox action that creates deception, rooted in geometric principles, is being particularly discussed. His remarkable economy rate of 4.17 and an astonishing average of 8.28 for 15 wickets in eight games have made him the centre of attention. He showcased his lethal prowess in the World Cup, leaving observers debating which of his performances was the standout and which of his 15 wickets was the most crucial. The South Africans, including David Miller and Heinrich Klaasen, aimed to see off Bumrah and target the other bowlers instead. Jansen adopted a similar strategy but fell victim to a delivery that swung late, dislodging the leg stump bail. With the score at 156 for five, this wicket was crucial, but the value of Reeza Hendricks' early dismissal in the first over cannot be understated. It prevented South Africa from a strong start. Bumrah conceded only eight runs in his last two overs, finishing with figures of two for 18 in four overs - an economy rate better than his own economy rate for the tournament. If one were to identify the player who had the greatest impact in the World Cup for India, it would undoubtedly be him. It's no surprise he was named the Player of the World Cup.

New Delhi: The BCCI selection committee has picked Sai Sudharsan, Jitesh Sharma and Harshit Rana to travel to Zimbabwe for the first two T20Is of the five-match series. The trio have been picked as replacements for Sanju Samson, Shivam Dube and Yashasvi Jaiswal. While Sudharsan has already made his debut in ODIs - in South Africa last year, Jitesh has played nine T20Is for India having made his debut in the Asian Games in 2023. Harshit, who had an impressive IPL with eventual champions Kolkata Knight Riders, is uncapped at the international level. Samson, Dube and Jaiswal were a part of the Indian squad that won the T20 World Cup on Saturday (June 29) and their departure to India from Barbados was delayed as a result of a Hurricane. The BCCI has confirmed that the World Cup-winning trio will first travel to India with the

India's squad for 1st & 2nd T20I- Shubman Gill (Captain), Ruturaj Gaikwad, Abhishek Sharma, Rinku Singh, Dhruv Jurel (WK), Riyan Parag, Washington Sundar, Ravindra Bishnoi, Avesh Khan, Khaleel Ahmed, Mukesh Kumar, Tushar Deshpande, Sai Sudharsan, Jitesh Sharma (WK), Harshit Rana

Cricbuzz understands that the BCB decided to keep one official of the hotel after they failed to make contact with the picking up the phone. There is wide-scale speculation that head coach Chandika Hathurusingha decided to not pick him in the XI, even though the official begs to differ. "It is true that he (Taskin) joined the team later after missing the team bus," said the official on Monday. "But why he did not play only the coach can say because whether he was in the plan or not (against India) is something that can be answered by the head coach (Chandika Hathurusingha)," he said.

"If there was any issue (between coach and the player) how he played the next game against Afghanistan," he said. "He apologized to his team mates and everyone for not being able to get up on time and that's it and no need to make an issue out of it," he added.

Bangladesh head coach Hathurusingha was not ready to make any official comment in this regard when contacted by this website as he insisted on focus being on the performances on-field.

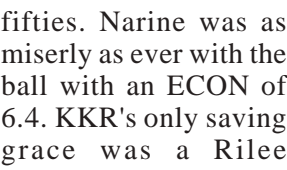

later this year. Munro said he was excited to be part of the squad and couldn't wait for the opportunities which await him during the summer. "It's a strong squad again and I'm looking forward to being part of what we can build together. There are always opportunities to get better and as a group, we should be excited about the new goals we will pursue this summer."

New Delhi: The LA Knight Riders looked rudderless in the inaugural season of the MLC. Despite a team packed with T20 paragons, a 1-4 win loss record characterised their lacklustre performance on the field. The team went down the doldrums with four defeats in their first four games. What was more disconcerting was the margin of the defeats, including being shot out for 114 and 50 in their first two games. The quality of domestic batting talent was an all pervasive issue for all the MLC teams in the first season. While some managed to perform in patches, the LAKR domestic batting talent completely flopped. To make matters worse the likes of Martin Guptill and Jason Roy were unable to make a substantial impact at the top of the order. Long-term KKR loyalists Sunil Narine and Andre Russell remained amongst the runs and wickets but lack of support around them deterred the duo to translate those individual performances into match winning ones. Roussow blinder that gave the franchise its first taste of victory in the final league game. Rilee Roussow will make way for his more illustrious countryman David Miller for this season. Jason Roy and a handful of Englishmen will make a dash stateside at the height of the English cricket summer. Afghanistan wrist spinner Waqar Salamkheil is expected to bowl in tandem with captain Sunil Narine. Aussie left arm quick Spencer Johnson will spearhead the bowling attack with Josh Little roped in as back up seam option. Andre Russel, Shakib Al Hasan and Alex Carey form the rest of the international contingent. LAKR drafted in TNPL wicket keeper batter Adithya Ganesh as their primary pick at $75,000 at the domestic draft. Ganesh, who played for TNPL as recently as 2023 qualified as a domestic player based on his immigration on a spousal visa. Unmukh Chand, Saif Badar and USA batter Nitish Kumar hung onto their spots in the roster despite low returns in the previous season. Chand would especially look to prove a point or two after being overlooked for a home World Cup, in what was fantasised as a great redemption story. USA quicks Ali Khan and Shadley Van Schalkwyk along with Corne Dry bring definite calibre to LAKR's domestic bowling reserves.
