Most of the leaders of Congress, BJP, Communist, NCP and JMM, who have joined the BJD, are holding major positions in the party. Those, who have joined other parties leaving the BJD, their relevance is on wane.

It never happened that everybody was in the same slot and sounded the same, which is the case today. I feel sad for the singers because it is difficult to build an identity."

The National Award winning singer has been conferred with Padma Shri. The win for Paudwal comes on the heels of her being conferred with honorary D Litt degree by the D Y Patil University. Apart from this, the singer will be felicitated by Chennamneni Vidhya Sagar, Maharashtra Governor on February 18 for outstanding contribution in the field of music and social service.

She sang her way through the 70s and 80s, before quitting playback for Bollywood films at her peak in the 90s, and Anuradha Paudwal says she always wanted to leave the game when on the top. Anuradha first sang a shloka in the 1973 Abhimaan, starring Amitabh Bachchan and Jaya, following up with films like Kalicharan, Aap Beati and the blockbuster, Hero.

It was, however, in the 90s where the 64-year-old singer came up with consecutive hits in "Aashiqui", "Dil Hai Ki Maanta Nahi" and "Saajan". "I had decided to give up film singing much before 'Aashiqui' and 'Dil Hai Ki Maanta Nahi'. But I had decided that I will give it up when I am at my peak," Anuradha told PTI.

When asked why did she want to leave at her peak, the singer added, "Because you should be missed." Her decision to quit didn't discuss it with anyone. It was only between me and my God. I'd rather be missed than people say 'why is she singing,'" she says. She, however, did reach a stage in her career where after having several highs with films like "Ek Dujhe Ke Liye" and "Karz", she saw a dry run post "Hero".

"There was a big lull of four years after Hero. I faced that. There were hardly any films. They were all multi starrers," Anuradha says. The singer then gradually moved to singing devotional songs. Anuradha says she

No mention of job creation, big reforms for farmers

New Delhi (KCN): Reacting to the Union Budget 2017, Congress vice-president Rahul Gandhi on Wednesday expressed disappointment over the lack of big reforms aimed at farmers. "Government wanted to make an impact with budget before polls. But there was no impact. Should have announced something big for farmers," Rahul said. Saying that Union Finance Minister Arun Jaitley made a "good speech", Rahul however added that job creation found no mention in the budget. Speaking on railways, Rahul said the safety record under this government is "very bad". "Rail safety record of this govt very bad.

Did FM say anything? Prime Minister Narendra Modi had spoken about bullet train. Has it come?" he said. On increasing transparency in political funding, Rahul said he will support all steps the government takes.

Rupee extends gains, up 24 paise Dollar caught in crossfire as Trump talks currency wars

MUMBAI(KCN): Hitting a positive note for the sixth session, the rupee today strengthened by another 24 paise to 67.63 against the dollar early on after banks and exporters continued to cut back on the US currency.

Dealers said dollar's weakness against a basket of other currencies overseas gave the domestic currency more muscle. Moreover, a higher opening in the domestic equity market provided some support.

The rupee had gained 8 paise to close at one-month high of 67.87 against the US currency yesterday on sustained selling of the dollar by exporters and banks ahead of the Union budget to be presented today. Meanwhile, the benchmark BSE

Sensex rose 64.15 points, or 0.23 per cent, to 27,720.11 in early deals

Presenting provisional results for 2016 last week, the Stuttgart-based, family-owned firm said it was investing billions in transitioning to electric cars and connected objects from its traditional car components and domestic appliances business.

Bosch to pay out $327.5 million over Volkswagen 'dieselgate'

FRANKFURT(KCN): German car parts maker Bosch said Wednesday it will pay out some $327.5 million (303 million euros) in compensation to US buyers and dealers of Volkswagen-made diesel cars affected by the 'dieselgate' scandal. Bosch made some elements of the sophisticated software, known as "defeat devices", that VW installed in 11 million diesel engines worldwide to minimise emissions during regulatory testing. Bosch said in a statement that a compensation agreement "would settle the claims of consumers and dealers of helping used vehicles against Robert Bosch GmbH, its affiliates, employees, and directors" in the United States.

US customers who bought vehicles from Volkswagen and Audi with 2.0-litre diesel engines between 2009 and 2015, as well as 3.0-litre VW, Audi and Porsche cars produced between 2009 and 2016, will receive compensation.

The agreement must still be approved by a US federal judge in California, with a hearing slated for February 14.

While agreeing to pay out to VW buyers who have accused the firm of helping conceal the existence of the "defeat devices", Bosch said it "neither acknowledges the facts as alleged by the plaintiffs nor does Bosch accept any liability."

With the proposed agreement affecting only civil law claims, Bosch added that it "will continue to defend its interests in all other civil and criminal law proceedings and to cooperate comprehensively with the investigating authorities in Germany and other countries."

"We wish to devote our attention and our resources to the transition in mobility and in other areas of activity," chief execu-utive Volkmar Denner said in the statement.

Presenting provisional results for 2016 last week, the Stuttgart-based, family-owned firm said it was investing billions in transitioning to electric cars and connected objects from its traditional car components and domestic appliances business.

Bosch reported 73.1 billion euros ($79 billion) in revenue and operating profit of 4.3 billion euros for the year.

SYDNEY(KCN): The dollar was put on the defensive in Asia on Wednesday after the Trump administration accused Germany and Japan of devaluing their currencies to gain a trade advantage, fuelling a risk-off mood that also kept stocks subdued.

The U.S. currency suffered its worst January in three decades after President Donald Trump complained that every "other country lives on devaluation."

Just hours earlier his top trade adviser said Germany was using a "grossly undervalued" euro to exploit its trading partners. The accusations drew rebuttals from German and Japanese officials, but looked likely to run for some time.

"Suspicions that Washington may increasingly focus on the value of the dollar were catapulted into the limelight," ANZ analysts said in a note.

"The early policy implication is that dollar competitiveness could have a prominent role to play in Trump's 'America First' agenda."

The dollar did recoup a little of its losses as the Asian session wore on, edging up to 112.94 yen from a low of 112.08, though that remained well short of Monday's 115.01 peak.

The euro was firm at $1.0793, having been as high as $1.0812 and a long way from Monday's trough of $1.0617. Against a basket of currencies, the dollar stood at 99.651, having ended January with a loss of 2.6 percent.

The jump in the yen kept Tokyo stocks flat, while MSCI's broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan was 0.06 percent lower.

Chinese markets were still on holiday but surveys from the Asian giant showed manufacturing and services activity continued to expand in January.

Exports from tech bellwether South Korea also grew at the fastest pace in almost five years, another sign the global economy had been on the mend before all the talk of U.S. protectionism darkened the air.

FED ON HOLD

Investors' hopes for a fiscal boost to the world's largest economy under Trump have been tempered by controversial and protectionist policies that have seen him suspend travel to the United States from seven Muslim-majority countries.

The policy uncertainty only added to expectations the U.S. Federal Reserve will keep interest rates steady when it concludes a two-day meeting later Wednesday.

The setback for Wall Street has been limited so far.

While the S&P 500 fell on Tuesday for a fourth consecutive session, it still ended higher for the month. The Dow dipped 0.54 percent, while the S&P 500 lost 0.09 percent and the Nasdaq 0.02 percent.

Apple shares also jumped 3.3 percent after the bell as sales of iPhones beat expectations, helping lift Nasdaq e-mini futures up 0.2 percent.

Safe-haven bonds benefited from all the unease over Trump's policies and yields on 10-year Treasury debt eased to 2.46 percent from 2.48 percent early in the week. The retreat in the dollar also boosted a range of commodities, with copper touching a two-month high. Brent crude oil for April was quoted 10 cents lower at $55.48, while U.S. crude eased 8 cents to $52.73.

Defence budget gets marginal hike

NEW DELHI(KCN): Defence budget takes a marginal hike of nearly 10 per cent, while capital outlay, which is only meant for modernisation of armed forces gets increase of 9.3 per cent. However, defence experts still have concerns as the allocation is only 1.62 per cent of the GDP, lowest since 1962. Even Pakistan spends nearly 2.36 per cent of GDP on defence.

Union Finance Minister Arun Jaitley said the defence expenditure of the country, excluding pensions to armed forces, in Financial Year 2017-18 will be Rs 2.74 crore.

Explaining further, the Minister of State for defence Subhash Bhamre tweeted that 9.3% increase in capital outlay for Defence Ministry. Up to Rs 86000 crore from Rs 78000 crore last year. However, Defence Ministry could not spend 8.76 % or Rs 6886 crore out of the Rs 78586 crore capital outlay budget it was allotted last year, s it failed to finalise the contracts for military hardware.

And the Defence pensions budget increased marginally from Rs 85624.60 cr spent last

From Page-1 cent on income between Rs 5 lakh and Rs 10 lakh and 30 per cent for income above Rs 10 lakh.

Against the backdrop of demonetisation intended to eliminate blackmoney and introduce clean transactions, the Budget barred any transaction in cash above Rs 3 lakh. As a measure of transparency in political funding, he lowered to one-tenth the donation that political parties can accept in cash to Rs 2000 per donor.

The Finance Minister expressed confidence that the pace of remonetisation has picked up and would soon reach comfortable levels with effects not expected to spillover into the next fiscal.

In view of the fact that the proposed GST is expected to be rolled out soon, he left indirect taxes largely untouched expect for some changes in duties on tobacco products, solar panels and circuit for mobile phones.

While excise duty on pan masala has been hiked to 9 per cent from 6 per cent currently and that on unmanufactured tobacco to 8.3 per cent from 4.2 per cent, the same on the filter and non-filter cigarettes of all length was also hiked.

Mobile phones will be costlier with the Budget proposing a 2 per cent special auxiliary duty on import of populated printed circuit boards (PCBs).

The Finance Minister ruled out abolition of Minimum Alternate Tax (MAT) on companies but allowed them a carry forward facility for 15 years instead of 10 years to allow them MAT credit.

In a bid to boost the rural and informal year to Rs 85737.31 allocated this year. Because OROP ar-sectors hurt by the note ban, the Budget raised the target for agriculture credit during the coming year to a record Rs 10 lakh crore that will ensure flow of credit to under serviced areas.

The Budget provides for Rs 9000 crore under the Crop Insurance Scheme and proposed to set up a dedicated micro-irrigation fund under NABARD with an initial corpus of Rs 5,000 crore.

The Budget provisions under rural employment guarantee scheme MGNREGA has been increased from Rs 38,500 crore in the current year to Rs 48,000 crore in 2017-18, while Rs 19,000 crore has been given under the rural roads programme.

The total allocation for rural, agriculture and allied sectors has been pegged at Rs 187,223 crore, which is 24 per cent higher than the previous year. In a bid to boost infrastructure spending, the Minister proposed a total of Rs 1,31,000 crore towards capital and development expenditure of railways which includes Rs 55,000 crore provided by the government. The Railways will focus on four major areas of passenger safety, capital and development work, cleanliness and accounting reforms. A passenger safety fund is being created with a corpus of Rs 1 lakh crore over five years and a plan for modernisation and upgradation of identified corridors.

Railway lines of 3,500 km will be commissioned in next fiscal as against 2,800 km in the previous year. Steps will be taken to dedicated trains for tourism and pilgrimages.
